Lost boy sought in Minico area
RUPERT — Search and rescue units from Minidoka and surrounding counties are searching for a 10-year-old Potomac boy lost Monday morning.
Jeff Hodgson was separated from a group undergoing a surviving course in the Crystal Caves area north of the town of Minidoka.
The search and rescue units were called this morning. Units from Blaine, Power and Bannock counties are assisting the Minicosta unit.
Sheriff's deputies and the Civil Air Patrol are aiding in the search.

Young Martin pleads to arms count
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dean Martin Jr., 22, son of the singer-actor, was arrested at a mansion by federal agents who found seven machine guns and a 14 foot long anti-tank cannon in his possession.

Gold price, dollar decline
BRUSSELS (UPI) — The price of gold dropped sharply on European exchanges today and the U.S. dollar declined.
Gold opened at $152.50 an ounce on the Swiss exchange, a drop of $4.50 overnight. The metal was down on the London exchange as well. It dropped one dollar overnight to open at $155.75, then slid to $153.50 at the morning official fixing after steady selling, dealers said.

Quit nitpicking, Barry says
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., today called for an immediate end to the "incessant nitpicking" against Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.
Goldwater said in a Senate speech, a "determined inquiry" should be launched to find the sources still leaking sensitive government information.

US food policies assailed
TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Dr. Margaret Mead says the United States is focusing a number of poor nations into bankruptcy by using food for political gain, the same way as Arab nations use oil.
"We have food but we will only sell it to people who can pay in political coin," the anthropologist said. She said the U.S. sold $20 million worth of food when people were starving.

French set austerity plans
PARIS (UPI) — The government today approved a set of austerity measures designed to put France back into the black by the end of next year.
Government spokesman Andre Rossi said the cabinet, meeting under President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, gave full approval for credit, savings, tax, budgetary and energy saving measures to dampen inflation and reestablish France's balance of payments equilibrium.

Satellite sharing proposed
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert Saroff, RCA Corp. chairman, said Tuesday future communications and weather satellites should be shared by several users to avoid waste of space.
"Space may seem unlimited, but desirable locations are not" for satellite placement above the earth, Saroff told the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association.

S. Viets offer 6-point peace plan
SAIGON (UPI) — The South Vietnamese government today gave the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese a six-point demand for peace.
It called for immediate end of all cease-fire violations; return of Communist troops to precease-fire lines; withdrawal of North Vietnamese troops and war materials to the North; release of government civilian and military prisoners; respect for the international peace-keeping force and serious negotiations for an overall solution to the war.

Nuclear tests believed near PAPEETE, Tahiti (UPI) — French security ships sailed into place around Mururoa atoll today awaiting favorable weather for the first nuclear explosion in the atmosphere of France's 1974 test series.

Hostage, 5, yanked to safety; long ordeal ends

NEW YORK (UPI) — A five-year-old girl, held hostage for 31 hours by a gun-toting killer, ended her ordeal calmly today by offering a policeman a soft drink through the doorway of an apartment where her stepfather lay dead on the floor. Seconds later, her captor gave up without a struggle.

Reaching for the drink with one hand, the officer grabbed the girl, Averill, with the other, and yanked her to safety.
Police then talked her uncle, convicted killer and former mental patient Floyd Steele, 56, into putting down his gun and surrendering.
Inside the apartment, 34-year-old Fred Kinsler lay dead of gunshot wounds, apparently inflicted shortly after Steele took him and his stepdaughter captive.

The drama began at about 1 a.m. Tuesday when Steele pulled a gun on Kinsler and his wife, Peggy, apparently after Kinsler objected to a pass Steele made at his wife.
Lt. Frank Boltz of the Major Crime Division, who pulled Averill to safety, described what happened in the final moments:
"We talked to Tish (Averill's nickname) for about two hours this morning while the other men were talking to Steele."

"We put some food down. He let her pick up the food. She spoke on anything from seeds to railroads. She made three or four trips and at one time she handed me a cup, but her uncle had the gun, and told her to come back."
"During the last trip, she was coming down the hall with some Kool-Aid. I reached out with my left hand for the Kool-Aid, and grabbed her with my right," Boltz said.

Air Idaho, Ponderosa parent company sold

TWIN FALLS — A multi-million dollar Twin Falls based holding company which owns Air Idaho and Ponderosa Inns has been sold to a Chicago firm.
The holding company, Greater Idaho Inc., had been owned solely by Sierra Life Insurance Co., Twin Falls.
The sale involved 58.5 per cent of Greater Idaho holdings.
The purchaser is Best National Enterprises Inc., another holding company.
The specific sale price was not released, but company sources said it was "in excess of $3 million."
A statement released jointly by John S. Meers, Best National chairman, and Fred M. Frazier, Sierra chairman and president, said the stock sale was "in stipulation to an order and with the approval of the Idaho insurance commissioner."

They said George T. Waugh of Chicago has been elected president and chief operating officer of Greater Idaho. Melvin Nelson, Twin Falls, has been elected to the new board of directors of Greater Idaho, and named executive vice president of the firm.
According to the joint statement, Best National is a holding company with interests in a "new concept of condominium compound development—chemical and steel products, financial and consulting services, and operates a sawmill."
Greater Idaho has four divisions: Air Idaho, Ponderosa Inns Inc., Regal Manufacturing Co., and Western American Plastics corporations.
Air Idaho is a commuter air carrier operating regularly scheduled routes between Sun Valley, Boise, Twin Falls, Burley, Elko and Salt Lake City.
Ponderosa Inns own inns in Burley, Pocatello, Idaho Falls and Hawaii.
Regal Manufacturing manufactures modular homes and is involved in developing housing subdivisions and apartment complexes.
Western American Plastics of Mesa, Ariz., manufactures plastics products.

No 'Miami connection'

By BART QUESNELL
Times-News writer
KETCHUM — Federal drug-enforcement spokesmen said there is no "Miami Connection" for Blaine County narcotics dealers.
The recent arrest of two Ketchum people at the Miami International Airport carrying a pound of pure cocaine does not mean there is a drug shipment network involving Idaho.
Ted Swift, information officer for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency, said the recent Miami arrest did not indicate a trafficking route through Idaho.
However, he and other drug enforcement officials say there are large quantities of "hard drugs" in Blaine County.
He confirmed that undercover narcotics agents have begun making payments for "thousands of dollars" to purchase hard drugs in Blaine County as part of the enforcement effort.

Curtis Johnson, 77, Ketchum, and Rebecca Johnson, 34, his wife, were arrested at Miami International Airport and charged with smuggling cocaine into the United States last week. Mrs. Johnson was seized by custom agents as she attempted to smuggle over a pound of cocaine strapped in her body, officers said.
Curtis Johnson was arrested in Miami also; Johnson had flown in earlier, that day from Columbia according to Swift, followed by his wife on a different flight.
Swift said the confiscation was small compared to other hard drug arrests. He estimated the cocaine confiscated would sell for $10,000 to $15,000.

Widened margins spur 5.1% May food price jump

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News writer
TWIN FALLS — Grocery prices here took the largest single monthly jump in two years, rising 5.1 per cent during May.
In summing the price of a 20-item market basket to a cost 23 percent above this month last year, according to a Times-News survey of five local grocery stores.
The increases came despite predictions by Agriculture Department economists that increases in food prices would slow down.
The predictions were caused by the decline in wholesale farm prices. From the first of the year through April, national farm prices declined 8.1 per cent, according to the Department of Labor's wholesale price index.
But at the same time, grocery prices have been increasing. On the national level, food prices increased 3.2 per cent in the first four months of the year.
At a local level, prices jumped a whopping 12.9 per cent from January to June, according to the Times-News survey.
According to the USDA economists, it's the middlemen who are boosting the prices. In a mid-May report on the marketing situation, USDA sources said consumers aren't getting the benefit of declining farm prices because food processors and supermarkets are widening their margins.
Increased costs for labor, transportation, energy and other items are causing the increased margin, the report indicated.
Local market manager Jerry Swenson said margins in the middle were "squeezed all the way through when things were going up so fast in the long run it's not unreasonable to expect retailers to adjust their prices to get the margin they need to operate and pay their bills."

He said merchants are "now expanding their margins to a point where it was, say, two years ago." In addition, the middle steps are costing more now.
All costs associated with manufacturing and distributing products are going up at least at the rate of inflation which is 12 per cent, Swenson added.
In the breakdown of local price increases, meat and staples were both up during May, but produce prices declined slightly. Meat prices increased about 7 per cent, staples 5.4 per cent, and produce was down one per cent.
The average price of lean ground beef at five local markets surveyed jumped 10 cents, an 18 per cent increase. Cost per pound went to an average $1.08, from last month's price of 89 cents per pound.
The price of sugar, which has been rising continuously for several months, jumped another 33 per cent during May, from 10¢ per pound to 13¢, which cost about $2.53 last month now averaged $3.12.
The price of a dozen large eggs, which has also been going down, was 55 cents. Last month, the same dozen cost the shopper an average of 62 cents. The decline is about an 11 per cent decrease.
Many other items remained level, but detergent and cereal showed increases. One popular detergent brand went up 3 per cent, from 99¢ for a giant size box to $1.07 for the same box.
Cornflakes, a 12 oz. box, went up 10 per cent, from 39¢ to 43¢.

Senate passes $21.9 billion for US military

(c) New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate approved Tuesday a $21.9-billion military program bill after narrowly rejecting a further reduction in military aid to South Vietnam.
By a 46 to 45 vote, the Senate defeated an amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that would have lowered the ceiling on military aid to South Vietnam in the coming fiscal year to $750 million.
In the bill approved by the senate, the Senate Armed Services Committee had set the ceiling at $900 million, which was $700 million less than requested by the government. The House approved bill sets the ceiling at $1.125 billion, the same level established for the current fiscal year.
The Senate bill, which provided $1.3-billion less than requested by the government for weapons procurement and military research, now goes to conference with the House. The House bill authorized $2.6 billion. The conference is expected to yield a compromise of around $2.1 billion.

Neither version makes any significant change in the major weapons programs sought by the Pentagon. In eight days of debate, the Senate, usually by a decisive margin, bent down all attempts to cut back on weapons programs, such as the B-1 bomber or to withdraw some troops from overseas bases.
As drafted by the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Senate bill does attempt to achieve some savings in manpower costs, which now account for 56 per cent of the defense budget of $88 billion. The bill ordered a 49,000-man reduction in the 2,152,100-man active-duty strength sought by the Pentagon and a 44,000-man cut in the 1,027,300-man civilian payroll of the defense department.
The Senate bill also directs a $23,000-man cut in support troops in Western Europe. The troops do not necessarily have to be withdrawn and may be added to combat forces.
The manpower reductions are estimated to save $1.6 billion annually, respectively, from retired military groups, the Pentagon. The Senate offset some of these savings by approving a readjustment in retired military pay that would cost $342 million in the first year and eventually a total of $1.6 billion.
Before passing the bill by a 84 to 6 vote, the Senate modified an amendment by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that would have given the secretary of defense authority to veto the export of any goods or technology to the Soviet Union that he determined would increase Soviet military capability. Unable to block the Jackson amendment, the opposition pushed through a modification by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., leaving the determination to be made by the president on the basis of a recommendation from the secretary of defense.

The Senate also approved an amendment by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., that would direct the Defense Department to abandon its present policy of not sending military officers to take courses at colleges and universities that have dropped Reserve Officer Training Corps programs.
The Javits amendment is certain to be resisted in conference by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, at whose insistence the Defense Department has adopted its present policy. The policy affects 11 colleges and universities: Brown, Colgate, Columbia, Dartmouth, Harvard, Hobart, Pratt Institute, Stanford, State University of New York at Buffalo, Tufts and Yale.

Valley students request lounge

VALLEY SCHOOLS — Student officers met with Valley school trustees Monday night to request that a student lounge be created at the high school.
Randy Christensen and Dan Ritchie, newly elected president and vice president of the student body, asked for a room to be set aside for students to use.
The board asked the boys to check with other schools in the area, which have student lounge facilities to see if they had operated successfully and to return to the board with evidence that they can be run successfully.
Alice McLean and Mrs. Marie Bowlin, representing the citizens committee for the creation of a new elementary school, thanked the board for holding the first election May 21 and asked that another election be held soon.
The 5-mile rally asked May 21 failed to win voter support.

Funds would have been used to acquire land for a new elementary building. Trustees feel the proposal failed by a large enough margin that it would be unfeasible to schedule another vote soon.
Two new teachers were hired to complete the faculty for next year. Mary Ann Call, Malad, will be the new first-grade teacher and Dan Sellers, fifth grade, both graduates of Idaho State University.
Supt. Arlin Boddy reported on the vandalism of 11 sections of sprinkler pipe used to irrigate the high school lawn. Replacement cost between $300 and $400.
Trustees reviewed improvements being made at the school this summer. Boddy said the summer baseball program being conducted by Monte Andrus has 60 boys participating.
The summer migrant program has 40 students enrolled.

Filer school board Seen... fills staff slots

FILER — Trustees of School District 413 hired several teachers and janitors during Monday evening's meeting at the high school.
Joseph (Jack) Jakubowski was hired as assistant football coach and also will teach physical education and aural studies. He formerly lived in Chicago, a graduate of Pennsylvania State University, and received his master's degree at the College of Idaho, Caldwell.
Gordon Bennett was hired as vocational agriculture teacher. He attended the University of Idaho. Mrs. Eleanor Thompson, a former teacher at Memorial Lutheran School, Twin Falls, was hired as high school English teacher.
Bill Wright was hired as janitor for the Filer Elementary School. Charles Farmer is employed this summer doing carpenter work at the school, and Cecil Nice and Tony Nice are working on the school grounds.
Teacher Bennett was granted permission to take several of the students to a judgeship contest in Moscow June 17-20. Bill Heaps, principal at the Filer Elementary School, is the high school, read a letter from the Northwest Association accrediting the school was accredited and commending the school for recent improvements on the school library.

Supt. Ray Baker was instructed by the trustees to look into landscaping and trees for the elementary school grounds. The trustees counted and accepted the ballots from the recent trustee elections which saw Lawrence Knigge re-elected from zone 1 and Leo Gilling elected in zone 4.
Brent Lerman, Filer, driving a new blue pickup truck. Neil Allen, Filer, carrying large box of oranges and tangerines. Kimberly Mayor Von Nebeker, checking watch to get hearing started on time. Land board sets thermal rules

BOISE (UPI) — After discussing proposed regulations for more than a year, the State Land Board opened the file Tuesday on state leases for geothermal energy — exploration and development.
Before it took its unanimous decision, however, the board debated 2-3 a move that would have given limited priority to companies which tried to apply for such leases prior to July 26, 1973.
Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, chairman of the board cast the tiebreaking vote against preferential treatment.

Before this proposal is adopted, however, it will be sent out for written comment from the public.
During the initial filing period of 60 days, applicants who file on the same land the same day will be considered as having filed simultaneously. The order of the filing will be resolved by public drawing.
After the initial filing period conflicts will be resolved through competitive bidding.
Rules were adopted to prevent what deputy attorney general Matthew Mullany called "front-loading" the leases — spending a lot of money to acquire the leases instead of spending on exploration in hopes of early development and royalty.
Leases will cost $1 per acre per year for the first five years, $2 per acre per year the second five years, and $3 per year thereafter up to a maximum of 40 years.
Land will be leased for geothermal exploration for up to 40 years and leases can be renewed three times after that if the property is producing.
Royalty will be 10 per cent of the amount or value of the geothermal resource.
Royalty of five per cent of the amount or value will be charged on any associated by-product of the geothermal lease.
Left up in the air at this writing was the question of the Idaho nuclear energy commission's request for withdrawal of 8,000 acres in the Raft River area for a special project. Board members indicated they may talk with the chairman about it at the next meeting.

Victim improves

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — A teen-aged survivor of the brutal H-17 murders was reportedly improving from the gunshot wounds he suffered in the back of his head.
A doctor at St. Benedict's Hospital said Courtney Nalsbitt, 16, is able to walk with help, feed himself and say words. He had lain in a coma for weeks on the critical list. Young Nalsbitt was shot April 22, one of five victims of a robbery-murder at an Ogden stereo shop. Three persons died, including the boy's mother. Another man, Orren Walker, also reportedly died of gunshot wounds to the head. Nalsbitt, the son of a physician, has "shown significant improvement" according to doctors.
Three airmen from nearby Hill Air Force Base have been charged in the slayings.

TF school aides award contract

By CRICKET BIRD
Times-News Writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls School Board Tuesday accepted the only bid submitted for construction work on four district schools. Subject to review by local counsel, the board awarded the contract to Nielsen and Co., Twin Falls, for 16-bid of $1,399,800.

The expected approval by the board opens the way for remodeling and additions on Morningside, Harrison, Lincoln schools and Robert Stuart Junior High School.

Bid opening was May 29. CFA Architect's Ed Peterson advised the board the bid was acceptable within the budget set for the project. Project I, the remodeling work, was budgeted at up to $1.5 million originally.

When bids for project II, the construction of a new elementary school, are opened June 27, trustees will be able to judge total cost if additional funds remain from the school bond fund, some extras, like carpeting, may be added to the project.

Edward Laats, representing Nielsen, said he didn't feel the statewide strike by construction workers would delay the project. Laats said he hoped intervention by federal mediators would resolve the strike quickly. And the paperwork required before beginning the job takes time, too, he said, giving them some leeway.

After a closed "personnel" session, the board approved a salary raise to $14,515 for athletic director Bob Donnelly. Donnelly was moved to an 11-month contract from his previous 10-month contract to compensate for what School Supt. George Staudacher called "increased duties."

The highest pay rate for district teachers is $13,100 for a 9-month contract.

In other business, the board: — accepted the resignation of high school basketball coach Don Haynes.

— hired three additional teachers, in home economics, drama and speech.

— heard a report that realigning of Bickel School should begin within the next week.

Bid opening for project II is June 27. The next regular school board meeting is July 9.

TF woman GOP candidate

TWIN FALLS — Betty Hoppe, Twin Falls, feels women should "take part in politics, and is proving it by seeking a legislative seat from district 24."

Mrs. Hoppe, wife of Paul Hoppe, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for the Idaho Legislature in district 24.

Four years ago Mrs. Hoppe (then Betty Bevers) filed for the same office but withdrew her candidacy after receiving a position with the Idaho Department of Employment. State employees are not allowed to be involved in politics, she said.

Last December she resigned her position with the department.

Her husband, Paul, is an associate professor of automotive technology at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls, and she has been a resident of Twin Falls for 34 years.

"I have been interested and active in government and politics as far back as I can remember," Mrs. Hoppe said. "My first interest is primarily in the state legislature and I am excited about the prospect of campaigning. Three and one half years with the Department of Employment have given me an inside view of the workings of Idaho agencies; made me sharply aware of the problems women face in employment and convinced me of the importance of vocational education in helping solve some of the employment problems," she said.

Mrs. Hoppe said she plans to contact as many residents of district 24 as possible. "I am concerned about what you are concerned about and will listen to what you have to say," she said.

Final competition and the crowning of the new Miss Idaho is set for Saturday evening.

Jerome hires instructor.

JEROME — A new band instructor was hired by the Jerome School Board Monday night.

Steven Robert Call, who has been music teacher in the Hansen school system since 1972, will assume the position this fall. Call replaces Larry Stanley who resigned.

Five other teachers were hired by the board, including James Pillon, first year teacher in the commercial department; Leon Kytle, junior high Spanish — he has a master's degree and has taught at the University of Nebraska; Eileen Hughes, junior high PE, a first year teacher; Mary Sue Duncan, first grade at Washington, nine years of teaching experience; and Debbie Van Engelen, fourth grade teacher at Lincoln.

Supt. John Campbell reported that the option on the 40 acre west end of Jerome, the site of the new high school, has been extended until Oct. 1. "The architects for the new high school will be in Jerome Thursday to meet with city officials and the Idaho highway department. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the right-of-way for the sewer and water lines to the new high school," he said.

Campbell said there is enough room along the right-of-way adjacent to State Highway 25 to extend the water line from the new fish and game office, but that there is some doubt about having enough room for the sewer line. "We may have to ask the city to extend the sewer line south of Highway 25 from the new LDS Church," Campbell said.

also have some preliminary drawings of the new school. The board accepted the resignation of Ruby Rupert, elementary teacher.

Campbell told the board that the new school is being prepared and will be presented at the next board meeting. "High school principal Jerry Dent felt it would be of help to have a policy handbook to give high school students at the first of the year, spelling out in detail the do's and the don'ts for the students. Most of the policy book deals with disciplinary matters," Campbell said.

He said it was not patterned after state board policy.

Band concert set Thursday

TWIN FALLS — Band concerts start anew this Thursday in the city park.

The Twin Falls Municipal Band will play each Thursday this summer starting at 8:15 p.m., according to Del Slaughter, director.

This week, the following program will be presented: "March Winds," "Clare Grundman," coronation scene from "Boris Godunov," Modest Moussorgsky, "First Suite in E Flat," Gustav Holst; "Sleeping Along March," Edwin Franko Goldman; "March Divergence," Everett Marxell; "Three Eichings," Sammy Meribao; "Sounds of the Carpenters," arranged by John Canaves; "Paint Your Wagon," Symphonie Scenario; Frederick Loewe, and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Larry Curtis is associate director of the summer band concerts.

Camp opening slated Monday

MILNER — Opening ceremonies for the first Youth Conservation Corps Camp to be held in Magic Valley is scheduled Monday 9:30 a.m. at the Miller site.

This is located nine miles west of Burley near the old Milner community. The camp is an eight-week program and a non-resident camp designed for ten boys and ten girls all between the ages of 15 and 18.

Nick Corzoko, district manager for the Bureau of Land Management, Burley, said the 20 enrollees and five staff members have been selected and will be attending the opening ceremonies.

Corzoko will open the ceremonies and introduce several area officials for brief remarks. William L. Mathews, Idaho State BLM director; Robert Humphries, camp director, and Vard Chaburn, state representative from Cassia County, will speak. Humphries will introduce the YCC staff.

Magic Valley hospital activity reaches peak

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley Memorial Hospital "is bustling with activity" ever been in its entire history," according to James Rosenbaum, hospital administrator.

Rosenbaum went through recent hospital statistics with board members at their Monday night meeting.

Comparing the first five months, this year and last, admissions have risen almost six per cent, from 3,387 to 3,587. Total days spent by patients in the hospital have risen also, about 6.9 per cent, from about 16,000 last year to more than 17,000 so far this year.

The percentage of occupancy — how crowded the hospital is — has increased, Rosenbaum reported. "In the first five months last year the hospital had a 71.9 per cent occupancy rate for all beds including maternity beds. Now it is up to 77 per cent, with adult and children's beds high at an average of 84.5 per cent occupancy."

A dramatic rise is seen in the number of patients treated in the operating room. At this time last year 1,394 patients had been treated; this year there have been 2,363, a 19 per cent increase.

A doctor boom and growth of Magic Valley's population were credited for causing the increase in hospital use.

In other business, board members approved two expenditures for maintenance.

The window ledges on the repaired and replaced at a cost estimated less than $1,000.

In addition, the elevators must be made to comply with safety codes of the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA), at a cost of about $5,000, according to Rosenbaum.

He emphasized the elevators are presently safe, but because of OSHA's safety and the danger of the hospital being fined, the expenditure was necessary. Work would be done during the day to save on overtime pay, with one elevator down at a time.

The board also discussed the possibility of securing a nursing staff consultant — an outside observer to come in and make efficiency studies of nurse-staffing patterns. The board moved to hold off on the study until a permanent director of nurses is hired. The search now has been underway for several months.

The board also heard reports on the air conditioning system still not working, but promised to be operating soon; the new laundry equipment — successfully installed after some difficulty, and the new washwater, to be installed Monday.

The hiring of three new employees previously approved by the board, was announced by Rosenbaum. Included are accountant Ethor F. I. personnel manager Claudia Rue Braun and intensive care unit director Shawna Fuller.

The board also heard complaints regarding a recent hospital stay from Mrs. Evelyn T. England, Buhl. Mrs. England spoke with board members about noise problems and other irritations. She said the public should be informed board meetings are open, and members receptive to comments.

Saturday deadline on petitions

TWIN FALLS — The Sunshine Initiative drive is winding up this week.

Saturday is the deadline for initiative petitions to be signed and turned in to county clerks for verification, according to JoAnne Forman, local coordinator of the statewide drive.

The initiative would provide for disclosure of campaign contributions over $50 and campaign expenditures over $25. It would also require the registration of professional lobbyists.

The initiative petition needs 24,311 signatures to be on the ballot. A majority vote would make it law.

"This is the last opportunity to help in insuring that proposed laws which the legislature did not have an opportunity to vote on will be on the ballot for direct citizen vote next November," Mrs. Forman said.

She reported the local drive is very near its quota of 1,000 signatures and hoped it would go over that by Saturday.

Information on obtaining petitions for last minute signatures are available through Mrs. Forman, 734-2072.

Henry blows up

Henry Kissinger blew up Monday. In the process he managed to interject domestic scandals squarely into the middle of President-Nixon's triumphant world tour.

The Secretary of State's action was not a minor aside, but the kind of event that can overshadow even a series of meetings among world leaders. Surely talk of Kissinger's possible resignation is occupying the attention of the world-diplomatic establishment much more so than is talk of the President's tour.

President-Nixon should be and probably is furious. One side effect of the world trip—and possibly the primary purpose—is to show the President as a vigorous, triumphant world leader who is above the morass of Watergate and other domestic scandals.

Bingo, the secretary of state suggests that the taint of scandal is not trivial, but is enough to topple even superster Kissinger.

The irony is that in such a matter the President is right. Kissinger and the President have managed to perform a remarkable diplomatic feat in obtaining a disengagement in the Middle Eastern fronts.

There is no reason for other unrelated activities to detract from genuine works of merit.

Kissinger justifiably has reason to be angry. Controversy over his connection with wiretaps on his own aides has tended to detract from his special moment of triumph.

But by his angry resignation threat he made the situation worse and surely embarrassed his President.

Full airing needed

Christian Science Monitor

Whatever one's views on the best kind of federal land-use legislation for the United States, the subject is too urgent to be kept from a full congressional airing.

This week it was shocking for the House Rules Committee to decide to keep the National Land Use Policy Act from the floor earlier this year. And this is why the Rules Committee's recent reversal of that decision must be welcomed.

Now at least there can be the clarifying clash of a broad range of opinion prompted by a floor fight—and, it is to be hoped, a crystallization of effective legislation.

Such legislation has been repeatedly stymied in the past. Its aim is to provide states with the funds to devise their own plans in keeping with the goal of using the national heritage of the land with balanced regard for environmental protection and economic development.

The Senate passed such a bill last summer, though without the financial "sanctions" that would have aided enforcement by penalizing states failing to establish land-use plans. The House Interior Committee's proposed bill also dropped such sanctions. Both the bills had seemed to have the Nixon administration's support.

But now it appears that, although Mr. Nixon still regards land-use planning as a priority issue, he prefers a weaker House bill without the same federal guidelines as the Interior bill. It would be a pity if these differences are not intended to undermine the rights of states or individuals but to recognize them in relation to the needs of proper land-use.

Whichever bill gains more support, however, the encouraging thing is that land-use legislation has now been sprung for floor discussion. It is too important to be kept on ice. Anyone concerned with the continued ravaging of the American land will realize that some form of this legislation must come eventually—and the sooner the better.

Mideast trip overtones hint at 'Gate effect

WASHINGTON—Behind all the plaudits embroiling President-Nixon's trip to the Middle East, his decision to go with such speed has alarmed some of his most intimate advisers.

Indeed, Nixon's insistence on going before the ink has dried on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's agreement disengaging Syrian and Israeli forces is the first sign of the President's willingness to risk Kissinger's intricacies of mediation in the interest of impeachment politics.

The issue is not Nixon's natural instinct to cash in on Kissinger's triumph. The problems of a quick presidential tour before the dust has begun to settle on the radical reformation of Arab-Israeli relations are far more fundamental.

No matter how it is glossed, the Nixon visit looks like rubbing the nose of the Russian bear in the ashes of its political defeat in the Arab world.

Once the Nixon-Kissinger team cut the Gordian knot of two decades of pro-Israeli U.S. policy, it was predictable that Moscow could never compete with Washington in the Arab world. But the Russians have tried to reduce their losses, even sending Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on a visit to Damascus at the critical moment of Kissinger's triumph. When he arrived, his dinner with President Hafez Assad was cancelled and his plane was towed to a distant point on the airfield at Kissinger's request so no photograph could be taken of the two super-power aircraft side by side.

But cutting losses and keeping a hand in play is still the Soviet game. Accordingly, Moscow has now sent to Syria a handful of operational, Soviet-built MIG-23 fighter-bombers, the first since the Soviet-Arab thaw began two years ago. The Soviet-Arab thaw has been a major factor in the way of military equipment has been denied him. Moreover, Assad's desire to compromise with Israel without giving up the way by Pro-Soviet elements in his

But what is there now to bring? U.S.-Syrian diplomatic relations would have been restored without any presidential visit. The new $100 million American aid package has been on the books for several months. The really tough issue what to do about the Palestinians and a new Palestinian state—bristles with insoluble problems, and a single verbal stumble by the President on his trip could set off a political explosion.

A second hazard in the President's trip is yet another long Kissinger absence from the State Department. With the Moscow summit less than three weeks off, Kissinger has yet to make final recommendations on major summit questions: strategic arms control, trade and credit, troop levels in central Europe.

The best that can be said for the Nixon trip is that he is moving fast to make an extraordinary capitalization of Kissinger's shrewd recommendations on the Middle East, however, is yet ripe for presidential vainglory.

Hence, the real reason—Nixon foresees television coverage of frenzied Arab millions cheering him as he cannot be cheered back home—carries disturbing overtones.

It hints not that the President would knowingly risk U.S. interests to advance his own, but that his impeachment struggle is triumphing over judgment that in foreign policy, has always been calculated and hard-headed.

Soviet danger looms in both Nixon journeys

What is there to look out for in President Nixon's two trips?

1. As regards the Mideast, we need to watch out for that comprehensive enthusiasm with which Nixon greets peaceful overtures. One would have thought that the landing on the moon ended problems on earth, ditto the Vietnam cease-fire, ditto the China trip.

Concerning the Mideast, we have to fear any arrangement the stability of which depends on the presumptive continuing cooperation of the Soviet Union. And such a dependency would transpire not from any development in the Mideast related to Nixon's trip, but from the naval buildup in Congress. If we lose our power in the Mediterranean, we will be banking in the future on Soviet good will, and that is not worth two cents on the dollar, as Nixon has from time to time reminded us in the past.

Viewed in purely strategic terms, our relations with Israel are extremely important, giving us a foot in the door of an area (the Persian Gulf) which, until we discover a substitute for oil, is the most critical in the world. It is unlikely that the Soviet Union, will now that nature has revealed the ultimate strategic weapon, sitting there in her back yard, tended to by a few olive-skinned sheiks—suddenly discover the virtues of self-abnegation.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY, JR.

2. As regards the trip to the Soviet Union, we have to watch out for efforts by Nixon to get around the Jackson Amendment. The second Jackson Amendment. The first Jackson Amendment is the more notorious, demanding that the Soviet Union give emigration rights to Jewish citizens before we grant to the Soviet Union the economic advantages of Most Favored Nation.

The second Jackson Amendment demands nuclear parity in the next round of the Strategic Arms Limitations talks. This has been a veritable point for Nixon's disarmament specialists. The approach under Ambassador Smith at SALT I was that we didn't really need nuclear parity, let alone nuclear superiority; that all we needed was the knowledge that we could visit intolerable damage on the Soviet Union.

Mutual assured destruction, they called it, and suddenly the roof caved in on the whole thing when we were required to consider the possibility that the Soviet Union could successfully eliminate our land-based missiles while reserving enough weapons to devastate our cities. In the event that we ordered our submarines to devastate theirs.

Their strategic arguments now turn on whether we should develop weapons that would train on the Soviets' weapons (a counterforce), or whether we should restrict our land-based missiles so as to make them proof against even the highly accurate megaton weapons of the Soviet Union.

Once again, the thing to watch out for is any sign that we are substituting optimism for rigor; that we have got into the habit of assuming that Soviet policy is conducted according to rational lines of thought. A country that will starve its people rather than free its universities has not yet abandoned ideology.

It is said that nothing of a permanent nature will be attempted for so long as Nixon is under the cloud of Watergate. Careful, now. Because for so long as he is under that cloud, America's chances seem to be improving.

And the line of least resistance for Nixon is to attempt, by circular argument, to confirm his faith in a "generation of peace" by declaring that he has achieved a generation of peace. Rather like the solution advanced to the Vietnam war a half dozen years ago, declare that we have won it—and pull out, and maybe nobody will notice what really happened.

What really would happen to us would come after Nixon is gone; but not in that event, after Nixon is forgotten.

Class of '74 has many choices to consider

(C) New York Times Service

Art Buchwald's lighthearted message to this year's college graduates was that "we've given you a perfect world, so don't lose it up," but most commencement day speakers seem to have been in a decidedly pessimistic mood. We have lost our way, according to the common theme. Our institutions have let us down. Our leaders have lied to us and broken their trust. We have changed the world faster than we have been able to change ourselves. So, it seems, we are a nation of strangers without faith in the old religious values or even in ourselves.

There are other themes, of course, but Cassandra seems to be in the main pulpit, pointing to the inflation, Watergate, Vietnam, easy sex, busing, and dope as symbols of a greedy and declining civilization.

Well, there is some truth in all this. But this is only the dark side of the Republic.

The Constitution hasn't failed us; we're just hesitating to apply its spirit to the present scandals. Our institutions have not failed us—the courts, the Congress, the press, and the church are meeting their responsibilities today more seriously and effectively than they have in many years.

Look at the judges Sirica and Geaney in Washington if you think the idea of decency and justice (or even the instinct of nobility and grandeur) are dead in America. Listen to the states, passing tough new laws to correct and control the scandals of campaign financing.

In this sense, Watergate has revived the conscience and emboldened the spirit of the states, the Congress, the press, and the church, and the reforming impulse of America is alive again.

The optimistic view, of course, can be challenged, but the college graduates of 1974 have a brighter prospect than the graduates of the 1960's or the early 1970's.

That is not a bad graduating present for the class of '74. They have their problems, but it is probably cooler for them now to decide the two major problems of young life: where are you going and who's going with you? The devilish thing is not that they have no choices, but that they have so many choices.

The guess here is they will work it out tomorrow, and they will have time to work it out, but Buchwald is probably right, as usual.

He was kidding the class of '74, but he had a point. They have not been given a "perfect world" but they have been given a better chance than most, and as Buchwald says, it would be a pity if they "loosed it up."

They are on the whole a lucky class. They have problems with inflation, interest rates and jobs, but unlike their parents or their grandparents, they do not face the disruption of great wars or economic depressions.

Day nearing when US 'gold bugs' legal

Editor's note: Gold, throughout the centuries, has been the most fascinating precious metal the world over. In many countries it is an individual's hedge against inflation, but it is unlawful for Americans to own gold. Robert E. Farrell, chief of the Washington Bureau of McGraw-Hill World News, writes that there is now hope for the American consumer who may wish to put away some gold for a rainy day.

By ROBERT E. FARRELL
WASHINGTON — American "gold bugs" take heart.

After more than 40 years of abstinence the day seems to be coming when it will again be legal for Americans to buy, sell and hoard gold. The move to legalize ownership of gold in the U.S. has gained momentum over the past two years. Traditionally, bills favoring gold ownership — banned since 1333 — have been introduced by Congressmen from goldmining states in the West. And just as automatically the Treasury Department has opposed lifting the ban, and Congress has shelved the idea. But now important shifts of opinion in the Nixon administration and in Capitol Hill indicate that the "gold bugs" may win out. The signs of change go back to the Republican Party platform of 1972 and an obscure plank calling for the lifting of the ban against ownership of gold. The Treasury — which continues to argue against the use of gold in international monetary affairs — now says that it isn't against private citizens owning gold. What it would like to do first, however, is work out an agreement with other nations which would virtually ban the use of gold as an official monetary unit.

The Nixon administration is trying to do this within the slow-moving U.S.-European negotiations on monetary reform. Once that has been done to Treasury's satisfaction it will be delighted to endorse the right of Americans to own gold, says one knowledgeable observer. But with gold now one of the fewest items that has shown a greater price increase than the general rate of inflation, Congressional pressure on the treasury is rising. During the past year the price of gold topped $200 an ounce on the free markets of London and Zurich. It has settled to about $160, but this is still way above the official monetary pegged price of $12.22 an ounce.

Many U.S. investors — and owners of gold mines, of course — would like to cash in on the metal's ever-rising popularity. So Congress, even if the Treasury Department can't work out a deal about the role of monetary gold, may force the issue this year.

Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., is pushing legislation that would permit ownership of gold by Sept. 1. His measure has passed in the Senate and is now in the House, where it just may squeak through. Says an aide to Dominick: "It's just a matter of time. The 'as ban against gold ownership is on its way out.'"

Actually, President Nixon could beat Congress to the draw. Under legislation authorizing the free dollar devaluation, Nixon received authority to end the gold ownership ban without Congressional action. If he sees that Congress is ready to act, Nixon may move first.

If the ban is ended it is expected that the result would be a spurt of activity in moribund gold mines in Colorado, California and Idaho. And individuals who want to hedge against inflation could then buy gold bars and deposit them in banks — or in their mattresses. Until gold production increases there would be a new upsurge in the price — perhaps as much as $500 an ounce — until inflation settles.

But whatever happens, investors in the U.S. would finally be able to follow the golden rule of their European counterparts: When in doubt, hoard gold.

Woman gives out gifts

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A neatly-dressed middle-aged woman carrying a shopping bag strolled about Monday distributing at least $123 in gifts, ranging from $1 to $40-to-passersby. "I want to make people happy," she said. Police said as far as they knew she had violated no laws. However, some suspicious pedestrians refused to take the money she offered.

Board OK's water rules

BOISE (UPI) — Despite contentions of an attorney it was overstepping its legal authority, the State Land Board approved 44 today rules to regulate beds, waters and airspace of navigable lakes and streams.

Sam Kaufman, Boise, an attorney representing the Lake Owyhee Citizens Association, warned the action would lead to a number of unnecessary "litigations."

He argued that the rules were written by Deputy Attorney General Matthew Mullaney and that Mullaney then conducted the hearings on them for the board.

"He wrote the rules," Kaufman said. "He is the accuser, the prosecutor, the judge and the jury and he is now asking you to approve his verdict."

Kaufman said. "There are a number of instances where the rules attempt to legislate," he said. "I don't think by rules you should make laws."

Mullaney disagreed, saying the rules simply express the policy set forth by the Idaho Board over the past several years.

Kaufman was especially critical of the fact the rules cover the waters of navigable streams as well as navigable lakes. He said the board has jurisdiction under the law over the lakes but not over the streams — that the Stream Channel Protection Act gave that authority to the Department of Water Administration.

He recommended rules for stream beds be left out of the lake rules. Mullaney countered that there should be uniformity in the rules and that the stream rules properly belonged, therefore, in the lake rules. He said the board has authority over the beds of streams and therefore over not only what is over the beds but under them.

"There is just no implied repeal (of that authority)," Mullaney said.

Secretary of State Pete T. Conrardy, the only Republican on the board, cast the lone dissenting vote on adoption of the rules. He said he would like to see them written separately for lakes and for streams.

In other action, the board made it clear to the Fish and Game Department that its "unwritten rule" against clear-cutting timber for any but timber management reasons will remain in effect.

Fish and Game Director Joe Greenley and Ted Meske, Kamiah, a game research biologist for the department, asked that some clear-cutting be allowed in the Snake River area for browse purposes.

Jack Gillette, assistant land commissioner for forestry, said a decision must be made on whether the board wants timber to be cut and sold or assumed it wanted timber to earn money for endowment funds.

Meske said the department would like to see some clear-cutting allowed in the Smith Ridge area.

DeFreeze termed 'unsophisticated'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Donnie DeFreeze, the 30-year-old convict who snuggled as "General Field Marshal Clinque" of the Symbionese Liberation Army, was a "very unsophisticated" prisoner, during his incarceration in California.

"I'd say he was an average guy," said State Corrections Director Raymond Proculier. "He may have been a little neurotic."

But compared to other jailbirds prisoners, "He was a very unsophisticated convict," Proculier added.

DeFreeze, who killed himself in a police shootout in Los Angeles, was first held at Vacaville and later transferred to Soledad, where he escaped in early 1973. He was first sent to jail for a shootout in a bank. "The reason he escaped from us is that we classified him wrong," Proculier said.

Soledad needed a firehouse attendant-boiler room expert and DeFreeze was qualified for the job. At first he was rejected for the minimum security job because of his record, but after repeated requests — by the convict he was accepted. One night he climbed a fence and escaped.

DeFreeze, who killed himself in a police shootout in Los Angeles, was first held at Vacaville and later transferred to Soledad, where he escaped

SLA avoided detection by small size

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Although the Symbionese Liberation Army opened its first recruiting center behind prison walls, the terrorist group escaped initial detection because of its tiny size, California prison chief Raymond Proculier says.

"Total SLA membership based on prison system intelligence, Proculier indicated, is only about 17 persons. "There aren't 25 members" as authorities speculated earlier, Proculier said in an interview. "The reason the SLA was so successful is that they didn't bring in a lot of members."

Membership, he said, included five long-time convicts still behind bars, the six SLA "soldiers" who died in the Los Angeles shootout, those sought by the FBI and the two young men accused in the slaying of Oakland schools superintendent Marcus Foster.

Proculier said that within the California prison system the "membership isn't all that clear—it's not like going down and joining the Rotary club and getting a card."

"We may have been sound asleep at the switch in terms of this whole thing," said Proculier, a former prison guard who worked his way up through the ranks. "But we have some bird dogs, bloodhounds, and in this department that come up with everything imaginable" on such groups.

The roots of the SLA are in the California medical facility at Vacaville and the prison's Black Cultural Association.

One of the group's 150 inmate members was Donald DeFreeze, 30, who, angered over his leadership, quit and formed his own identity organization called "Unslight." That group became what now believed to be the nucleus of the SLA.

Outsiders, most of them white and many from Berkeley, visited the prison at the time and participated in the two programs.

Two years after the formation of Unslight, DeFreeze escaped, only to emerge later as "General Field Marshal Clinque" on the ransom tapes for Patricia Hearst.

"I'm sure some of the seeds of the ultimate decision were laid inside (prison) while they were talking to the other guys (outsiders)," Proculier said. "The thing is these guys were spinning inside and intellectualizing and they were important to the inmates."

"Here's a Marine and a college graduate. Here's a beautiful woman coming in playing the sex role and would say the people with the real revolutionary gig going in would be the Harrieses," Proculier added.

The Harrieses, who are wanted along with Miss Hearst, are Bill 29, and his wife, Emily, 26, both described by authorities as white radicals.

Harris is a Vietnam Marine combat veteran with a master's degree in urban education from Indiana University. His wife also is a college graduate who taught elementary school before the couple moved to Berkeley.

"Pretty soon these guys (inmates) are part of it and they don't even know what they're part of," the prison director said. "Now let me tell you one thing — it may be as complicated as people want to make and as big and as organized and all that. And if it is, I've just done wrong."

"But they weren't sharing with these inmates. I think it evolved. This may be a bad analogy, but it's like a man and a woman. They get together and are attracted to one another and they know it's a dynamic situation. "So they promise one another they'll only go so far, and pretty soon they're farther than they wanted, then they don't know what to do," Proculier said.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Memorial or Decoration Day was first observed officially in the United States on May 30, 1868. The World Almanac notes that Gen. John A. Logan, commander G. A. R., inaugurated ceremonies on this date "for the purpose of strewing with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of comrades who died in defense of their country during the late rebellion."

COBRA SYMBOL of Symbionese Liberation Army and words "Tania lives" were painted on San Francisco City Hall. "Tania" is name adopted by Patricia Hearst. Painting will have to be sandblasted off. (UPI)

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

'Shock lung' treatment queried

By GEORGE C. THOMPSON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thompson: I am 21 and three months ago was rushed into emergency surgery for a ruptured spleen. The doctors say they don't know what caused it.

After the operation they thought I was developing pneumonia. My temperature went to 104, I had fluid in my lungs, and one collapsed. I didn't respond, so was rushed to a university hospital and my condition was diagnosed as "shock lung." They inserted three chest tubes to re-inflate my lung and also performed a tracheotomy and put me in a respirator.

I was told they don't know what caused the shock lung. Do you? And in the future, if need arises, is it possible for them to perform a tracheotomy on me again? — E.W.J.

"Shock lung" is a term used to describe a condition in which the lungs are damaged by a variety of causes, but can't get enough oxygen in his blood. "Tracheotomy (putting a tube into the windpipe) and use of a respirator are means of getting more oxygen into the lungs, and to the area where the patient is having difficulty absorbing oxygen."

Yes, these procedures can be repeated in case of need, but let's hope that you won't need them again.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Will you write about what we usually call fits, when anybody falls and their neck and head stiffens and draws backward, and then they get over it quickly, but have another one especially when there's excitement? What is the cause and what is the remedy? What kind of medicine will keep it off, if anything? — G.M.

You've written a pretty vivid description of a convulsive seizure, or convulsion, such occurs with epilepsy. The cause is fault in the part of the brain that governs muscle control — the muscles suddenly become extremely tense. There are several types of epilepsy, and several anti-convulsive drugs of various types, so often combinations of them are used to fit individual cases. Rather than suffering repeated attacks, this person involved should see a physician about getting the proper medication to prevent — or at least minimize — the seizures.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Please settle an argument. Is shingles caused from being nervous or from a virus? — J.L.

Shingles is caused by a virus — the identical or "almost identical" to the chickenpox virus. The virus infects some particular nerve track and that is why shingles appears in one area of the body, not in others. That doubtless explains the common misconception that shingles comes from "being nervous."

Golan pullback follows plans

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The first phase in separating the armies of Israel and Syria on the Golan Heights is proceeding smoothly and on schedule, an Israeli military source said today.

Israel is to hand over one-third of the salient it captured in the October war to Syria on Friday. The area is in the salient's southeast quadrant. The Israelis will return the entire 325 square miles taken in the war in three stages ending June 24. A military source said the second stage will run from Friday until June 18, and the final one-third will be evacuated between June 18 and June 24.

He said Israel will not return the Syrian administrative capital of Quneitra, the Rafid Junction farther south along the 1967 cease-fire line and Mt. Hermon until June 24.

The separation of troops and weapons on the strategic Golan front took a back seat in the Israeli media today to the forthcoming visit of President Nixon, underscoring the importance of his trip to this nation.

Nixon was scheduled to be in Israel for about 24 hours Sunday and Monday to Syria on Friday. The area is in the salient's southeast quadrant. The Israelis will return the entire 325 square miles taken in the war in three stages ending June 24. A military source said the second stage will run from Friday until June 18, and the final one-third will be evacuated between June 18 and June 24.

2 attorneys to subpoena Nixon

(c) Chicago Daily News
WASHINGTON — Two defense attorneys in the Watergate cover-up case have disclosed they plan to subpoena President Nixon for White House tapes and documents and will seek dismissal of charges if he refuses to produce them for trial.

Nixon has refused to turn over notes demanded by his former chief domestic advisor,

John D. Ehrlichman, in the Ellsberg break-in trial before Judge Gerhard A. Gesell.

Faced with the Presidential resistance to a defense subpoena, Gesell granted Ehrlichman a separate trial and delayed it indefinitely while the dispute with the White House continues.

Judge John J. Sirica, presiding at pre-trial arguments in the cover-up case, hinted strongly that he would not follow the same course if the issue came up in his court.

"Maybe I have different ideas about this matter than my good friend, Judge Gesell," Sirica told David Hall, one of Ehrlichman's defense lawyers.

Hall said he would subpoena Ehrlichman's personal files at the White House before the cover-up trial starts Sept. 9.

But Hall did not identify any particular tape or document that would aid Ehrlichman's defense and Sirica made it clear he would not dismiss charges because such a vague request was spurned by the President.

Thomas Green, an attorney for former Nixon campaign aide Robert C. Mardian, argued that the President's refusal to turn over documents that might clear Mardian should void the conspiracy indictment against him.

Tyros primary winners

By United Press International
A former prisoner of war from Maine, a law professor in Arkansas, and two men in Virginia who want to see President Nixon impeached, won Democratic nominations to Congress Tuesday.

They will all face Republican incumbents in the November elections.

Ex-POW Mark Gartley of Lewiston, Maine, was nominated to challenge Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine.

In Arkansas another political newcomer, law professor Bill Clinton, 27, was nominated to try to unseat Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt, R-Ark., Nov. 5.

Virginia Democrats nominated two candidates who have both publicly supported impeachment to challenge conservative GOP incumbents in November. One of them, Herbert E. Harris, will face Rep. Stanford E. Parris, R-Va. The other, Joseph L. Fisher, a veteran local official, will go against Rep. Joel T. Broyhill, R-Va.

Gartley, a Navy pilot who was held captive in North Vietnam for four years, said he was surprised by public discontent and disgust he said he saw while campaigning.

"Not only over Watergate and the economy, but their lack of will to use system to make changes," he said. "I think it's a sense of powerlessness — the people feel their power has slipped away and it doesn't matter anymore."

Clinton, of Fayetteville, Ark., soundly defeated state Sen. W.E. "Gene" Rainwater, 37,552 to 16,907, with most of the votes counted. But he will be the underdog in the November elections when he tries to unseat Hammerschmidt.

"I certainly don't plan to make any personal criticism," Clinton said. "Any criticism I make will be of his record and the differences in opinion."

After winning the Democratic Congressional nomination in Virginia's northern suburbs, Fisher, 60, vice chairman of the Arlington County board, said Watergate will definitely be an issue in his campaign.

"I think incumbent Republicans will have to carry some of that cross on their shoulders, especially Republicans like Broyhill who have voted for Nixon and who over the years have supported him," he said.

"If the President is sitting in the White House with a version of a (government) witness' statement different from his testimony, then it's a denial of due process if it is not produced," Green said.

But he told Sirica there was no precedent for such a ruling, adding: "It's novel — you're going to have to make some new law."

Earlier, Sirica rejected efforts by the six defendants for six separate trials, despite arguments from some defense lawyers that their clients might blame each other for the alleged cover-up.

Plato Cacheris, representing former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, said there were signs already that Mitchell would become a "fall guy" at the trial.

Station manager rejects subpoena

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — With a subpoena manager rejecting a subpoena to "respectfully decline" today to comply with a subpoena ordering him to give the FBI the original of a tape recording by Patricia Harris and two other alleged Symbionese Liberation Army members.

The FBI served the subpoena on Lewis Tuesday, demanding the tape made by Miss Harris and William and Emily Harris, and also a letter purportedly sent to the station by the "Weather Underground."

He said the station, which has already given the FBI copies of the tape recording, would not surrender the original materials, relying on the First Amendment to protect its right to keep confidential news sources.

The subpoena ordered Lewis to appear before a federal grand jury today and bring the tape and letter and any other "paraphernalia" that came with them. Lewis said he would appear, but without the materials.

The letter from the "Weather Underground," the name now used by the "Weathermen" faction of the Students for a Democratic Society in the 1960s, claimed responsibility for planting a bomb that heavily damaged the state attorney general's office here June 1. The bomb went off late at night when there was nobody in the state office building. The SLA tape was left under a mattress behind the station last Friday.

7 Scouting aides quit in pad scandal

DETROIT (UPI) — The director of the Boy Scouts of America in the Detroit area said today seven men have left the organization for allegedly lying about membership figures.

Joseph Wyckoff blamed part of the alleged lying on pressure from the national headquarters, which set a goal of two million new members in time for the U.S. Bicentennial in 1976.

Wyckoff did not identify the seven men, but said five of them were fired and two resigned under pressure.

The disclosure came after reports in Chicago of widespread cheating to inflate membership rolls.

Wyckoff said he discovered some Detroit units existed only on paper.

Over the past two years, he said, he found major discrepancies in four of the 24 districts in the Detroit area. They included padded membership lists in at least one area.

Wyckoff, who came to Detroit from national headquarters in North Brunswick, N.J., in 1971, has a paid staff of 50 and activities that involve 20,000 adult volunteers.

The Detroit organization operates over a million boys' camps, much of it from the United Foundation.

Politicians feud

ROME (UPI) — Italy's political and economic crisis deepened today, with a bitter feud between two influential political parties hampering attempts to form a new coalition government.

President Giovanni Leone entered his second day of talks with political leaders in an urgent search to find a successor to Premier Mariano Rumor. Politicians called it Italy's worst crisis since World War II.

Rumor resigned Monday after the two main parties in his center-left coalition — the Christian Democrats and the Socialists — failed to agree on ways to stem the rising cost of living.

The Socialists contended the higher income brackets should bear most of the burden, but Rumor's Christian Democrats wanted wage earners to tighten their belts as well.

So far the Christian Democrats and its former coalition partner, the Socialists, have shown little sign of reconciling their differences.

The Socialist party in a statement Tuesday blamed Rumor's Christian Democrats for the crisis, saying their policy of heavy taxation and a credit squeeze would have made the working man bear the brunt of stabilizing the economy.

The Christian Democrats replied in the party newspaper today that the working man must make his share of sacrifices in a country where he accounts for nearly 80 per cent of national income.

Talks under way

MOGADISHU, Somalia (UPI) — African and Arab leaders began a summit conference today by urging Somalia to dissolve its empire in Africa.

Delegates of the 42-nation Organization of African Unity met in this capital on the Indian Ocean to discuss and approve a 43-item agenda drawn up in six days of talks among their senior ministers.

The agenda "covered" such diverse problems as the Middle East conflict, the devastating drought in West and East Africa and the future of Portuguese territories of Mozambique, Angola and Portuguese Guinea.

Foreign ministers drew up a draft resolution Tuesday urging the Lisbon government to immediately recognize the right of its African colonies to independence before talks with various liberation movements begin ahead.

"The granting of independence must be unconditional," a spokesman for the African group said.

The summit meeting also tackled the problem of trying to unite various guerrilla movements in the white-dominated territories, especially the Portuguese colony of Angola.

Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been a widow for three years and have been longing for male companionship ever since. Oh, I have plenty of women friends, but it's not the same. I read in the obituaries recently that a woman I knew from church had died and was survived by her husband. I remembered him as a tall, nice-looking, refined gentleman, so I wrote him a letter offering my condolences, and I invited him to supper at my home. I hadn't seen him in about 10 years.

He came, bringing flowers, and we had a wonderful time—just the two of us.

As he was leaving he said, "I am lonely, too. How about my moving in with you?" (I am 63 and he is 74.)

I asked, "Is this a proposal?"

Steady company

He said, "Lord, no! We're too old for that!"

Abby, I have five children and 21 grandchildren who are always popping in on me, and I can't have a man living with me. On the other hand, I would enjoy having steady company and I'm afraid that if I pass him up some other widow will grab him.

If it were to "rent" him a room and call him a "boarder," do you think people would talk?

DEAR ABBY: People probably would talk plenty. Whether you care what they say or not is strictly your business. After all, think you've earned the right to do as you please.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 30 years. We have two grown children living away from home. He's a hardworking man and a good husband in many ways, but he is getting on my nerves.

He works in a machine shop days, and his clothes get very dirty, so as soon as he gets home he takes off his work clothes and sits around in his underwear. He wears regular undershorts and undershirts that are low cut under the arms. I've pleaded, demanded and berated him, but nothing helps.

I always keep myself looking nice around the house, but he doesn't care what he looks like. I have laid out fresh trousers and shirts for him, and even a nice robe, but he never touches them. We don't go out much, and the few times people have dropped in he stays in his old underwear. I am so tired of seeing him like that I could scream. Any suggestions?

DEAR ABBY: Buy him some good-looking Bermuda shorts and some colorful T-shirts and lay them out instead of him. If that doesn't work, go ahead and scream. It won't improve the scenery, but you'll feel better.

DEAR ABBY: A year and a half ago I met Jim. I was five months pregnant at the time. I told him about it, but he said he loved kids and he wanted to marry me, and he would never hold against me the fact that I had had another man's child. He wouldn't even consider my suggestion that "maybe I should give up my baby as soon as it was born."

I was so happy I thought I had died and gone to heaven. All of a sudden, Jim changed his mind. Now he wants me to give my boy away. He says he can't love another man's child. Abby, I have grown to love my son, and I can't give him up now.

I love Jim, too, and don't know what I would do without him. Is he being unfair, or am I wrong to expect him to accept another man's child?

Please help me. I am all mixed up. I am 20 and Jim is 25.

DEAR ABBY: Jim is unfair. He agreed to accept your child. If he now finds that he cannot, you must decide whether you will have fewer regrets giving up Jim or giving up your son. No one can make that choice for you. God bless.

MR. AND MRS. DENNIS MAUGHAN

Local couple says vows in May rites

TWIN FALLS — Tawna Marie Fullmer and Dennis Thomas Maughan were united May 24 at Calvary United Pentecostal Church, Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Fullmer and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maughan, all Twin Falls. Elder Lyle Fullmer, father of the bride, conducted the ceremony in a setting of fantasy flowers, wild roses and peonies, all made by the bride's mother from feathers.

The bride wore a gown with cascading ruffles of scalloped ecru tulle. Chantilly lace which swept to a cathedral train. Pearled Chantilly lace formed the scalloped sash and neckline.

Her veil was held by an organza bandeau trimmed with Chantilly lace. The three-tiered fingertip veil was also trimmed with Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of hot pink and turquoise fantasy flowers, wild roses, bells and ranunculus.

Debra Fullmer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Vicki Maughan, sister of the bridegroom, and Margot Dunn, sister-in-law of the bride. The bridesmaids wore Chantilly lace. The bridegroom's sisters, Shelby Maughan, and the bridegroom's sister, Teresa Burgess, were flower girls.

Mark Truodale, Boners Ferry, was best man. Crossman was Doug Maughan, brother of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Chris and Hovey and Scott Maughan, brother of the bridegroom. Carl Dunn, Olympia, Wash., nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Lyle Fullmer, was vocal soloist and Mrs. Dale Patterson was organist. Susan Herzinger was in charge of the choir.

guest book and Terri Tordel and Claudia Terrie were in charge of the gifts.

The couple was honored at a reception in the church after the ceremony.

The bride's table was covered with pink satin organza. It held a three-tiered wedding cake topped with two doves, and a wedding and engagement ring. Streamers of pink reached to heart-shaped side cakes with the names of the couple. The cake was decorated with cascading roses in shades of pink. The cake was decorated and baked by Lullie Robinson.

Mrs. Grace Zagata, Buhl, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Charles Dunn, Olympia, Wash., sister-in-law of the bride, cut the cake.

Mrs. Arthur Day, aunt of the bride, served coffee and Mrs. Bill Mobley, cousin of the bride, served punch.

A lace covered table decorated with silver candelabra and white tapers held a picture of the couple taken in 1971 and a framed poem about them.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple resides in Towncrest Apartments. The bride, a 1974 graduate of Twin Falls High School, is employed by Mountain Bell. The bridegroom is a 1973 graduate of Twin Falls High School. He attended the University of Idaho and the College of Southern Idaho. He is employed by Sears-Roebuck.

Special guests included Mrs. Marjorie Lantz, Sacale, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom; and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Maughan, Portland, Ore., paternal grandparents of the bridegroom.

Guests attended from Rexburg, Tirie, Pocatello, Buhl, Rupert, Caldwell, Olympia, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

Sororities tabulate projects

BURLEY — Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority members throughout Idaho have donated $14,125.55 and given 12,553 hours of volunteer time to the Easter Seal Society.

Tabulation of contributions to philanthropic projects by the 18 sorority chapters in Idaho was given by Nancy Flagen, Coeur d'Alene, second vice president, at the state convention here last weekend.

The Alpha-Rho chapter, Burley, was host for the two-day event, held at the Ponderosa Inn. "It's a Small World" was the theme for the convalescence.

Mrs. Flagen said the ESA is Idaho's largest contributor to the Easter Seal society. Activities include a candy drive in October and projects all-year-long—to buy camperships for handicapped children, ages 9 through 17, to attend the camp at Coeur d'Alene.

Mrs. Phyllis McBride, Rexburg, state president, conducted the convention sessions during which awards were given at a banquet.

The Alpha-Rho chapter received first place for its chapter scrapbook; second for rushing program and third for educational program.

Mrs. Mike Kechter, Rupert, chapter member, was first runnerup for the Idaho State

Girl of the Year title, won by Elise Peterson, Idaho Falls. Officers were elected with Rowena Hawley, Mountain Home, named president; Audrey French, Lewiston, first vice president; Dorothy Winger, Idaho Falls, second vice president; Betty Taylor, Boise, treasurer; Judy Kechter, Rupert, recording secretary, and Florence Harshenburger, Rexburg, parliamentarian.

When the Interior Department published its first list of endangered species in 1967, it contained 78 names. The 1974 list totals 100 names of mammals and birds.

US wheat harvest drop seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Prospects for the crucial 1974 winter wheat harvest declined 5 per cent during May, but the Agriculture Department's June crop report said the harvest now estimated at 1.531 billion bushels would still be the biggest on record and would be 21 per cent above last year's crop of 1.269 million bushels.

The new estimate, based on June 1 conditions, subtracted 41 million bushels from the forecast issued in May for a crop considered of major importance to the outlook for U.S. farm and food prices and the world food supply balance.

The decline from the May forecast was attributed by the department's crop reporting board to sharp subnormal rainfall, which left key Great Plains areas dry and to above-normal disease and hail damage in the Great Plains.

The estimated winter wheat crop, added to a possible spring wheat harvest of about 500 million bushels, would bring the total 1974 wheat crop to a record 2.031 billion bushels compared with last year's record crop of 1.711 billion bushels.

Before Monday's cut in the winter wheat estimate, the Agriculture Department had been projecting overall 1974 winter-spring wheat production at 2.172 billion bushels.

If government estimates for wheat in the 1974-75 marketing year beginning July 1 prove accurate, the projected 1974 crop would meet all currently forecast domestic and export needs, including room for expanded shipments to hungry nations abroad—and beyond that would leave a surplus to begin rebuilding the dangerously-low U.S. reserve.

No official forecast of the spring crop will be made until next month, however, but the initial forecasts are issued for major spring-planted products including soybeans, corn and other feed grains which serve

Currently, officials expect U.S. and world reserves of grains this summer to be at the lowest level in more than two decades.

However, farm prices have declined sharply in the past few months on the heels of June 1. Corn planting was about equal to last year's slow pace and was slowest in the central corn belt. Soybean planting was behind last year in the corn belt but ahead in the South. The crop reporting board also estimated—pasture conditions at 84 per cent of normal compared with 87 per cent at the same time last year. It said harvested winter wheat acreage would be 45,313,000 acres compared with 38,407,000 acres last year.

The peach crop was estimated at 2.672 billion pounds last year. Apples were estimated at 94,700 tons compared with 167,700 tons last year. The spring potato crop was estimated at 23,562 million hundredweight up 2 per cent from May, and 11 per cent above last year.

Farm

as the raw material for meat, milk and other livestock foods. In Chicago, market observers construed the report initially as bullish.

Market performance is a consideration where traders are concerned but the low figure is looked upon as somewhat incomplete, especially by traders friendly to the market who say the reduction may be still more significant when spring wheat figures are available.

Weather reports in recent weeks have shown some difficulties in planting spring wheat, which could result in holding that crop below the current 560 million bushel projections.

Wheat, foods alone play a comparatively small part in overall consumer grocery bills. But heavy production of wheat—which can also be used as livestock or poultry feed when supplies are ample—can serve to restrain prices of livestock feed grains which have a much larger impact on supermarket prices.

government forecasts of record 1974 grain crops and a possibly temporary but sharp bulge in meat production. Wheat prices, which soared to a record of around $6 a bushel early in the year, were down to about $3.75 a bushel at Kansas City last week.

The crop reporting board said 1974 winter wheat yields would average 33.9 bushels per acre compared with 35.2 bushels estimated last month and a 1973 yield of 33.1 bushels an acre.

Agriculture experts have tentatively projected a record 1974 corn crop of 6.7 billion bushels on the basis of early planting intentions reports, but some skeptics have doubted that much can be produced in light of a wet planting season and fertilizer shortages in some areas. Monday's report looking at the June 1 status of planting of corn, soybeans, sorghum and other spring-planted crops, said that after a fast start, corn planting progress was slowed by rain and was behind average on

Arky. plants

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—The first experimental plants in the United States for the recovery of sulfur from natural gas were built in South Arkansas.

The experimental plants led to the construction of two full-scale commercial plants, one of which produced approximately 100 tons of sulfur daily by purifying "sour" gas.

Sulfur, as a raw material, is important because it can be converted to sulfuric acid, which has numerous industrial applications.

Deep well goes down

LLOYD HAYDEN, Jerome, working for Araold Elsing Well Drilling, Twin Falls, starts well-drilling operations to irrigate a field belonging to C. D. Low. Hayden said the drill is at the 135 foot level and he anticipates hitting water at about 200 feet. Hayden said the spot where the rig is drilling has been mostly rock since about three feet down.

Idaho gardeners asked to join war on beetles

BOISE (UPI)—The Idaho Department of Agriculture Plant Industry Division has asked area vegetable gardeners to assist in fighting the Mexican bean beetle.

John Flanagan, Boise, head of the plant industry division, said the insect, which resembles the common lady bug, poses a serious threat to the state's $68 million bean industry.

Flanagan said inspectors have been employed for the bean growing months to check back-yard vegetable gardens throughout the Boise and Meridian areas.

The four women and two men who are working as inspectors will be looking for signs of the small, copper-colored beetle with its characteristic 16 black spots on its back.

The insect has the ability to deposit as many as 1,800 eggs on the underside of bean plant leaves.

Flanagan said the inspectors working for the department will wear identification badges on their outer clothing that will contain a photo of the inspector and the inspector's name.

If a garden is found to have an infestation of the beetles, the bean plants will be sprayed by licensed pesticide applicators with a product that will not interfere with the harvesting or eating of the beans, even on the same day as the spraying.

Flanagan said some 200 Boise area gardens have been found to be infested with the beetles.

Texas wheat crop halved

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Texas wheat farmers, forecast in early spring to produce 90 million bushels this year, may harvest a crop only about half that size.

Industry spokesmen said today that unfavorable weather, combined with a crop disease, would slash the state's wheat yield to 45 to 50 million bushels in Texas.

The outlook for the Texas wheat harvest is anything but bright right now, said Ron Goughner, president of the Lubbock Grain Exchange. "We are updated crop reports in daily, especially after the stormy, windy weather of the past couple days, and we haven't come across a good report yet."

Goughner said in areas of West Texas, which normally produces about 55 per cent of the state's total wheat crop, a wheat fungus was cutting back on yields.

Early harvest reports range from 4 to a high of 20 bushels per acre, Goughner said.

There have been a few isolated fields reporting slightly higher yields—but only a very few.

"Without question, this year's crop has been highly over-estimated," he said.

Farmers report their wheat was already dead in most West Texas areas from lack of moisture when heavy rains hit the area June 1.

Since then rain and hail has washed out a large portion of the remaining crop.

Picker ban hearing set

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—A show cause hearing has been postponed until today in a suit attempting to invalidate a new federal law that bans children under 12 from working in most Oregon strawberry fields.

The hearing had been set for Monday. U.S. District Court Judge James M. Burns granted the postponement at the request of U.S. Atty. Sidney Jazak, who said Oregon's Congressional delegation should have a better idea by Wednesday whether it can obtain the exemption it is seeking to offset adverse effects of the new law on Oregon berry farmers.

The suit was filed by Washington County berry farmer Larry W. Kelly on behalf of himself and five children, whom he contends he would employ as pickers if the law were not in effect.

Utah needs more water

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—While irrigated crops made good progress last week, nonirrigated crops and ranges in central and southern areas of the state are in need of more moisture, according to the Utah Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

Near freezing temperatures last weekend only did minor damage to garden-type crops.

While potato planting is practically completed, dry beans are 70 per cent planted, the service said. Sugar beet thinning is 60 per cent completed.

Condition of spring grains is rated generally good by the service and commercial vegetable crop conditions are good.

The service reported feed prospects on southern ranges are poor unless more moisture is received and some southwest ranchers are starting to haul water to herds.

June rain slows Gem crops

By United Press International
Rains slowed farming operations in some areas of Idaho the first week of June with cool, windy weather hampering progress of grain and forage crops.

More than the normal acreage of dry beans remained unplanted in some localities of the state by the end of the week.

Farming operations made good progress in eastern portions of the state, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said today.

Planting of spring grains, potatoes, and corn neered completion by June 7. Sugar beet blocking and thinning, cultivation of row crops, irrigation and cutting of first crop alfalfa hay were among the leading farming activities of the week.

There was an adequate supply of moisture of runways and dryland farming in northern Idaho but dryland areas in other sections of the state were short on moisture.

In the southwestern part of the state, spraying started for the control of fruit flies on cherries and codling moths on apples.

Tick-borne fever over

BURNS, Ore. (UPI)—A 30-year-old employee of the U.S. Forest Service is back at work, following a bout with Rocky Mountain spotted fever from a tick bite, according to his physician.

Dr. Bert Campbell said laboratory tests have confirmed the man was hit with the disease in early April. The man was hospitalized for a week with high fever.

Dr. Campbell said the tick that spreads the disease in eastern Oregon is known as the "hard shell" tick, active in spring and summer.

986 TF lambs sold

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Livestock Marketing Association sold 986 fat lambs Monday in the lamb pool.

County Agent Donald Youst said the lambs were purchased for $46.86 per hundred pounds by Jack Freestone, Burley, for John Clay and Co., Ogden, Utah. Marvin Lohr, Filer, chairman of the lamb committee, said the last lamb pool of the season will be Monday, July 1.

He said members of the association utilize the lamb pools as a means of selling lambs produced by their small farm flocks with other small producers so they will have an attractive number to offer for a higher bid.

"What it would do for these industries, in fact, is very comparable to what the Jones act did for the American shipping, which was nothing," Baker said.

Baker also said an American ban on log exports "could well come home to roost in terms of Canadian oil and gas or other essential imports withheld from the American market."

Other persons testifying at the meeting said a ban on log exports would rob longshoremen of jobs and would choke the lumber-processing industry with more logs than it has capacity to process.

Log export ban harm cited

PORTLAND (UPI)—A ban on log exports would hurt international relations, cripple United States balance of payments and would have very little favorable impact on the domestic lumber and plywood industry, according to economist Minor H. Baker.

Baker, vice-president and economist for the Seattle First National Bank, told the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission Monday that the controversial Stanford Research Institute report on log exports draws faulty conclusions in its recommendation for an eventual ban on log exports from federal lands and Washington State forest lands.

"There is no evidence that exports have diverted logs which otherwise would have been

Sisters still hospitalized

TWIN FALLS — Three young sisters remained in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital this morning for treatment of injuries suffered in an auto accident Monday.

Kandi Sweet, 10, and Becky Sweet, 16, were reported in good condition at the hospital, while Melody Sweet, 13, was listed in fair condition. All three girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Sweet, Twin Falls.

The Sweet girls were injured about 4:15 p.m. Monday when their car collided with a vehicle driven by Cenobio Alverado Mata, 42, Twin Falls, at a rural intersection.

According to sheriff's office reports, the accident occurred at the US Highway 74 and county road 2800 East about four miles southeast of Twin Falls.

TF cars damaged

TWIN FALLS — Several residents of Ash Street Tuesday found their cars damaged with spray paint.

At least three residents of the 700 and 800 blocks of Ash Street reported spray painting incidents to the police Tuesday.

Mark Peterson, 831 Ash, told police his pickup had been damaged with spray paint.

Barry Smith, 689 Ash, said his car was sprayed between noon and 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Mary Posselt, 721 Ash, reported that between 1 p.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesday someone wrote "H" in red spray paint on a rear fender of her white sedan.

Stolen taxi found

BURLEY — A taxi stolen from the Burley Cab Co. Monday night was recovered in Heyburn early Tuesday.

Burley Police Chief Gary Booth said the cab was taken from the 1100 block of East Main Street in Burley about 11:30 p.m. Monday and driven to Heyburn. It was discovered abandoned by Heyburn City Police.

The case is still under investigation by Burley police.

Gooding meet set

GOODING — Members of the Gooding Planning and Zoning Commission will meet Monday night with the City Council to discuss zoning regulations for subdivisions.

Mrs. Pat Klingler, commission chairman, said her group wants to talk with the council about implementing requirements for subdivisions "since it is the city which has the authority."

The need for updating the wall along the Little Wood River through town was discussed at the planning commission meeting Tuesday night. The wall, which was put up years ago, has been dynamited over the years during ice jams and has deteriorated, she said.

Members also discussed proposals for a truck route through Gooding and zoning regulations for residential areas.

Flag week

BOISE (UPI) — This is Flag Week in Idaho and Friday will be Flag Day.

In proclaiming the week and day Tuesday, Gov. Cecil D. Andrus said "The American flag is a symbol to all mankind of hard-won freedom and price."

Senators split vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Utah and Idaho Senators split along party lines in the 46-45 vote which defeated an amendment to the military procurement bill, which would have cut $160 million from proposed aid to South Vietnam.

Republicans Wallace Bennett of Utah and James McClure of Idaho voted against the bill Tuesday. Democrat Frank Moss of Utah voted for the bill and Frank Church of Idaho was absent.

Shoplifting laws eyed

BOISE (UPI) — An Idaho anti-shoplifting committee Tuesday heard presentations by two Boise advertising agencies concerning an education campaign tentatively scheduled to begin Aug. 1.

The committee hopes to have $50,000 to spend to educate Idahoans as to the state's stricter shoplifting law passed by the last legislature.

It is estimated that $15 million every year is lost to shoplifters and the consumer ends up picking up the tab because the loss is passed on by the merchant.

Aliens found in truck

BOISE (UPI) — U.S. Immigration authorities are investigating the discovery of six Mexican nationals found trapped in a rented truck at a Boise motel parking lot.

After receiving a phone call from someone in the vicinity of the motel, Boise police found the six in the truck parking lot near the Boise Airport.

Police estimated the aliens had been in the truck at the lot for at least 32 hours before they were released Monday night. Afternoon temperatures in Boise were in the 30s.

Andrus backs project

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus plans to continue his support for the Mountain Plains Education and Economic Development project which provides an opportunity for persons to improve and develop an occupational skill.

In receiving a status report on the project Tuesday, Andrus told Robert Hinkinson, Idaho state coordinator for the project, that he was "quite satisfied" with the program and that Idahoans taking part in the project were benefiting.

He said it was another example of a state-endorsed program which gives people who do not want to be on the public dole a chance to improve themselves and contribute to their society instead of unnecessarily living off that society.

Glider contests set in Hailey

HAILEY — The First Annual Idaho Invitational Hang Gliding Championships will be held here this weekend.

The event, three-fourths of a mile east of Hailey at Buttercup Mountain, will start at 9:30 a.m. Saturday and continue through Sunday.

Flyers from throughout Idaho and adjacent states will participate, competing for prize money and prizes.

Among the maneuvers flyers will perform are 280-degree turns in the air and spot landings.

The public is invited and refreshments will be available. Thirty to 40 flyers are expected to participate.

Groundbreaking ceremony

Blaine district eyes additional property

HAILEY — The Blaine County School District will attempt to purchase 10 acres of land adjacent to the new high school site.

On the advice of CTA Architects, Twin Falls, the district is attempting the purchase from Maxine Fox, who owns the land. The architectural firm representatives say a better plan could be drawn if the additional land was acquired.

Rhonda Hunt, board chairman, said at the monthly meeting Monday night the additional land could be used for a football field and parking area. The purchase also would allow the new building to be closer to the highway.

The floor plans for the new high school and junior high school have been drawn but high school Principal John Barton said definite changes will be made before approval is given to the firm.

In other business, assistant Supt. Ray Jefferson said the interest rates are high in the municipal bond market. Current rate is 6.2 percent but he cautioned the board not to wait too long to sell the bonds, which voters approved last fall, since construction costs are sure to rise.

He said indications make it difficult that the $4 million plus budget could be adhered to.

Two seventh graders, Pam Koonce, Ketchum, and Cristy Swanner, Bellevue, were given permission to participate in a 36-hour training program providing their parents' tutors for classes missed by the students. The expert skiers will be allowed to leave school at 1:30 p.m. to practice on the slopes during the winter.

Barton told board members many participants in the program last year did not maintain academic requirements. John Beaupre, foundation representative, said he would not allow any of the students to participate who did not maintain a C average.

School gets new curtain

FAIRFIELD — The Carnes County High School will have a new curtain for the stage when school opens this fall.

Trustees accepted a $500 donation from the Idaho State Bank, Glenns Ferry, during the board meeting Monday night. The money will be put with funds which have been saved for some time and the district will pick up what is short.

Supt. Harold Stroud said.

Total cost for the front and backdrop curtains and side rails so the curtains can be moved from front to back is $2,336, Stroud said. The present curtains at the school are 22 years old.

Trustees accepted a bid of $7,300 from Smith Roofing to redo half of the roof on the gym annex and the entire high school building roof.

Stroud reported he has received notification from the Idaho State Accreditation Association that the school is fully accredited. Earlier a similar report was received from the Northwest Secondary Accreditation Association.

Stroud said trustees are working on a new attendance policy to deal with absenteeism. He has also been put on a second unexcused absence the student and his parents will have to appear before the board, the superintendent said.

Trustees also canvassed votes in the May 21 trustee election in which Lowell Ruby received 11 votes to become the new Hill City zone trustee. Norman Tate received 3 write-in votes.

Hailey repair shop wins OK

HAILEY — Preliminary hearing for location of an auto repair shop on the south end of town was given by the Hailey City Council Monday night.

Jack Basolo, Sawtooth Ford Sales, asked the council for approval before he starts planning the project. He wants to build the new shop in Friedman Industrial Park across from the Blaine County Hospital.

The area is presently zoned light industrial. "We feel the shop needs the light industrial requirement" because 75 per cent of the operation will be in parts and service," Basolo said.

The council gave preliminary approval dependent upon final approval by the Hailey Planning and Zoning Board and the building inspector.

Basolo presented his plans to the planning commission last week on two acres in the park. An objection was raised at that meeting concerning the zoning ordinance which prohibits any strictly commercial development in the park.

However, the commission agreed the construction would fall into the category of light industry and repair and thereby qualifies under present zoning ordinances.

Refiling ordered in suit

TWIN FALLS — If a former Twin Falls woman is to continue her $10 million suit against several hundred area defendants, she will have to pay all filing costs and refile the action.

This was the order handed down Friday in US District Court in Boise in the suit of Sylvia E. Loving, formerly of Twin Falls, now residing in Los Angeles, Calif.

The plaintiff filed a motion to amend the complaint, which was granted by the court providing she pay the costs for all filing fees in the case within 60 days. Otherwise the case will be dropped.

Mrs. Loving alleges her father, who being cared for in a Twin Falls nursing home, was allowed to die because of inadequate care and medication. She named Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls County, Canyon County, Sky View Manor, Dr. Ralph Drake, Dr. Vaughn Pond, Jessie A. Loving and Kathleen Loving, the US Department of Health Education and Welfare, State of Idaho "Does" from 1 through 50 as defendants in the case.

The suit was filed in April in Boise and Twin Falls County was served with the notice April 12.

Ground broken for Burley school

BURLEY — Construction of a new Burley elementary school began with ground breaking ceremonies Tuesday afternoon.

School officials and representatives of Neilson and Co., contractors for the project met at the site of the new school, a 10-acre parcel southwest of the city limits for the occasion. The new school, presently unnamed, is the third complete building in the district's construction program.

The district is in the process of building a new junior high school in Burley as well as remodeling the Oakley High School.

Construction of a new elementary school at Declo and additions to school buildings at Malha are nearing completion. The new elementary school was necessary because of the destruction of the old Burley Junior High School building last October. Before the fire, school officials had planned to remodel the junior high for elementary use.

Completion of the $1.6 million elementary building is scheduled for Aug. 28, 1975, subject to change if the current crafts union strike in the Magic Valley is prolonged.

In his dedication speech, district Supt. Harold Blauer quoted a remark by Winston Churchill: "We shape our buildings, thereafter they shape us." Blauer said the open concept of the new school would allow flexibility in teaching.

Minidoka school taxes boosted by valuation

By ED MITCHELL
Times News Writer

RUPERT — Total Minidoka County school district maintenance and operation taxes will be up 48 per cent for 1974-75, mainly due to increased property valuation.

The increased tax revenue is included in the 1974-75 Minidoka County school district budget adopted at a meeting of the school board Monday night. The tax revenue is listed at $672,116 for last year and $997,933 in 1974-75.

The total general fund revenue for 1974-75 is $1,337 million, compared with $939 million for 1973-74.

County and state apportionment funds were increased from $215 million last year to $239 million for 1974-75.

Total administrative expense is up from $75,578 last year to $82,464 this year, mainly because of salary increases.

Total instructional expense, which includes teacher's and principal's salaries, will be $247 million in 1974-75, compared to $236 million last year.

Total operation of plant expense is up to $310,118 for 1974-75 from $288,764 last year. The increase is mostly due to salaries for custodial employees.

Replacement of equipment for maintenance and transportation caused a rise in maintenance of plant expenses from $74,800 last year to $100,000 for 1974-75.

Total capital outlay is up sharply from $41,000 last year to $305,761 in 1974-75. Most of the increase is due to the Minidoka High School sewer project which will cost $285,761.

About 90 per cent of the money will come from Environmental Protection Agency grants, except for Title II which is used for the title figure must be budgeted, so that it can be legally spent.

The project will be carried out in cooperation with the city of Rupert this summer.

On school plant facilities and bond interest and redemption fund, adult education fund, driver's education fund, school lunch fund and the vocational rehabilitation fund all show slight increases, but no significant changes.

Federal Title programs were slightly increased except for Title II which is used for books and audio visual materials which is up from $5,521 to $16,212.

Ketchum denies request

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times News Writer

KIMBERLY — Kimberly City councilmen Tuesday night denied a zoning request by J. H. Henry for a warehouse, partially because of lack of definite plans.

The official hearing on the proposal was only a formality as Henry's attorney, Ken Taylor, had not given the city any definite plans for the proposed warehouse. However, acting on the recommendation of the city zoning commission, the council denied the request.

Mayor V. Nelson said when specific plans are presented the city "it will be a whole new ballgame."

Three residents who live near where the warehouse is proposed attended the meeting, believing there would be a definite presentation of plans. They were told they could come again if another hearing is requested.

The original request was to both change the zoning from limited commercial to business and to obtain specific classification within a business code.

The hearing was included in the regular council meeting during which business was dispersed in an unusually short time of one hour.

Councilmen voted to insure a top hydram in the hydram system near Main Street where residents are complaining of damage to valves and hot water tanks because of the surging of the water. Bob Vawter, city works superintendent, said the cost will be about $18,000.

Robert Whitaker, Kimberly, requested information from the city concerning water hookups for five lots he sold on Van Buren and Spruce Streets. He was told to go ahead with a building permit request and he will have to pay for a water pipe from the street into his subdivision.

Blaine drug links probed

He said cocaine smuggling was "very definitely" on the rise through the Miami station but said agents could not remember arrests made on other Idaho residents.

The Johnsons have been released on their own recognizance, according to Swift. No charges have been set for their trial. Other charges are pending, he said.

According to Swift, hard drug traffic is escalating from South American countries of Peru, Colombia, Ecuador and Colombia.

Orville Hendricks, a state narcotics official, said, "We really don't know how much is here."

He said say arrests had been made in the Sun Valley-Ketchum area using undercover agents to pay thousands of dollars while acting as buyers of hard narcotics.

A local law enforcement official confirmed that report although he wished to remain anonymous. Several warrants are now issued, according to the Ketchum Police Department, for hard drug suspects.

Hendricks said the Sun Valley area had all the necessary ingredients for drug trafficking.

"The area has huge transient populations," he said. "A large hippie element comes into that area and goes out there all the time. That is an environment young people like, there is a lot of unknowns there and all the ingredients are there for narcotics traffic."

According to Hendricks and Swift, cocaine is a very acceptable drug in drug cultures today, Swift said, "It's in the thing."

Drug trafficking has been increasing according to Hendricks. He said drugs were coming in from Idaho from California and Mexico.

Drug trafficking and "population" figures correlate generally, according to Hendricks.

Buhl chamber office planned

BUHL — The Buhl Chamber of Commerce will have its own office again as soon as members can renovate the building.

The group plans to set up office facilities in a building next to the R and R Cafe on Broadway Street, which is owned by L. James Koutnik, Twin Falls. The building has been vacant for some time.

Arrangements have been made for the chamber to renovate the building and use the rent money to pay for materials, according to Hal Walker, chamber vice president. Chamber members will donate labor to insulate and lower the ceiling of the building.

The chamber had an office there some years previous, Walker said.

Juneau, Shinn, Twin Falls, longtime newsmen, gave his "first report to the valley not on Aug. 1 at the weekly chamber meeting Monday noon. He reminisced about early days in Buhl and Filer, where he lived before moving to Twin Falls."

Shinn formerly was in the newspaper business and has been active with local radio stations in Twin Falls for many years.

Ralph Assendrup was program chairman. Next week John Crawford, program chairman, also plans a speaker on early days in the area.

New Gem water report lists objectives

BOISE (UPI) — Environmental, economic and social aspects of water uses will be taken into consideration in making plans for the future of Idaho's water under a new Idaho Water Resource Board report.

An advance copy of the report, obtained by Idaho Statesman reporter Mandy Cameron, quotes Gov. Cecil D. Andrus as saying the report on board objectives is a "brilliant document" with excellent and definitive guidelines for water resource planning.

The report is the first of a series of documents which will make up the state water plan. Reports on the panhandle, Snake River and Bear River basins are scheduled for completion by 1977 to make up the four-part state water plan.

The report sets forth 13 major planning objectives, including environmental quality, beneficial and efficient water use, electric energy, erosion and sedimentation, fish, farming, fish and wildlife, flood-plains, agriculture, Indian lands, interbasin water transfers, recreation, state-federal rights, and wild and scenic rivers.

The report said the adoption of the objective of environmental quality for Idaho's water resources "means that economic feasibility will no longer be considered a simple justification for approval of water resource projects and programs."

"State water resource policy will recognize the public's growing concern over maintaining a quality environment and will act to prohibit those projects and programs which are not planned to make optimum use of limited natural resources," the report said.

Under the objective of beneficial and efficient water use, the board policy will follow broader definition of the term "beneficial water use" to include all water uses, both consumptive and nonconsumptive.

Decisions in conflict over water uses will be based on an evaluation of the beneficial and adverse environmental, economic, and social impacts of each use.

The other objectives include:

— Electric energy. The state policy will be to promote and encourage development of new electric energy and more efficient use of existing energy sources with the objective of making

Idaho self sufficient in energy production. Environmental quality. The board wants the environmental effects of any proposed action clearly identified and when possible, mitigation to offset losses.

— Erosion and sedimentation. Soil conservation practices will be part of the evaluation of all projects and programs.

— Fish farming. The board supports continued growth of the fish farming industry but notes that conflicts between the industry and other water users will exist.

— Fish and wildlife. The board will give equal consideration to needs of fish and wildlife in any water resource project or program.

— Flood damage reduction.

Customers win payment rebates

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hauling over a $143 refund cost the Chrysler Credit Corp. more than a quarter of a million dollars, city and state investigators found its computer shortchanged about 16,000 customers on car-payment rebates.

The credit company, a subsidiary of the Chrysler auto manufacturing corporation, wound up repaying $248,378.25, plus the city's legal fees of $12,500.

The terms of a stipulated court settlement were announced Monday by City Attorney Burl Pines, the credit corporation and the general manager of the city Bureau of Consumer Affairs, Fern Jellison.

Mrs. Jellison said it was the biggest case in the two-year history of the consumer bureau.

The investigation began last January when Anne V. Howell, staff assistant to the city planning director, finished preparing for her Dodge three months ahead of schedule.

She got a refund of $112, representing the prepaid interest that was rebated because the loan was paid off early.

The figures "didn't add up," she said. She and a mathematically talented friend figured she had $10.30 coming back.

Chrysler sent her a check for $2.75, but wouldn't pay the $4.3 she figured she still had coming, so she filed a complaint with the consumer bureau.

The city attorney, after investigating, filed suit and was joined by the state attorney general's office.

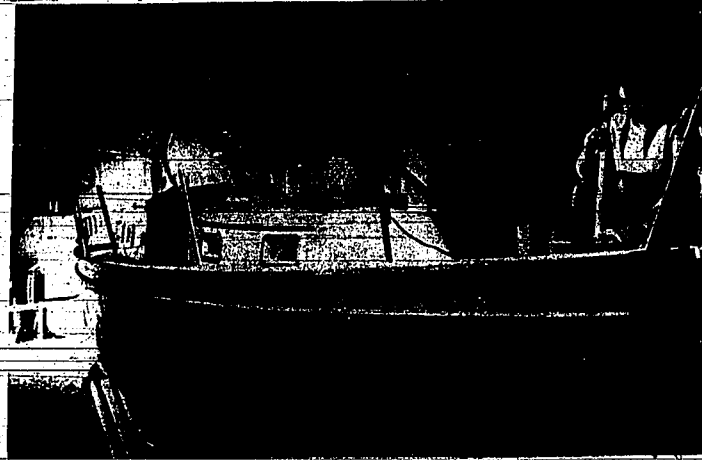

Investigators said that in programming its computer to figure out rebates on loans paid back ahead of schedule, the corporation had not taken into account a change in the state auto finance law affecting one month's interest charges.

Some of the corporation's offices still figure rebates manually, and they were doing it correctly, but not those that relied on the computer.

The computer program, "covered the entire state," said James R. Wood, vice president of the Chrysler Credit Corp.

The error was "an oversight," he said, and though the refund suit was limited to the City of Los Angeles "we went ahead and figured rebates for everyone in the state."

The error affected about 16,000 persons who "paid off" their cars ahead of schedule since February, 1971, he said. The company began paying them back in March, he said, with the usual refund being about $15.

Lincoln seniors elect officers

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County senior citizens formally organized during a meeting Monday at which J. Edwin Gritcheff was elected chairman of the advisory board.

Frank Lane was named vice chairman of the organization and Mrs. Ferrell Corra-way was hired as coordinator. Mrs. Corra-way will keep the books until a secretary is appointed. Her position is part-time.

The building which formerly housed the post office will be used for the center. The building is privately owned and is being leased by the center. Mrs. Corra-way said plans are being made to have the center open full-time when it is opened about July 1. She said that volunteer help will be needed, in addition to the hours she works if full-time hours are to be kept.

Members of the Rotary Club have offered to paint the building interior before the center opens. Area 4-H youth will be asked to help with cleaning the basement area.

Mrs. Corra-way said donations of furnishings and equipment for the center will be welcomed, since it is to be set up as a "household."

The organizational meeting was attended by Ed Wimmer, Boise program specialist for the Office on Aging, his secretary, Marie Dean, Nellie Haines, Jerome, chairman of the advisory committee, and Freda Johnston, Twin Falls.

It was announced Beverly Lawson, local teacher, has been certified for special education teaching, clearing the way for a learning difficulties resource room next year.

The board increased operational budgets for music and the vo-ag departments and established a new industrial arts budget of $100. Supl. Lanker said these adjustments are internal school adjustments, permissible use of general funds. Cost of music and other inflationary trends necessitated allowing for more for music and $300 increase for the vo-ag department, he said.

Works on dream

JERRY Powers, 35, and wife Brenda, Lafayette, Colo., work on their dream, a 46-foot, 10-masted sailing boat. Powers, a highly paid construction supervisor, plans to quit his job next April when the ship is completed, launch the boat in Puget Sound, and sail away. Powers said he is sick to death of the rat race and wants to retire to the sea. (UPI)

The schedule will bring the district in line with Department of Labor requirements. Kenneth Crothers, superintendent of schools, said the schedule will be effective July 1. There is no change in the employee's overall pay rate.

Court rule saves Minnesota timber

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — About 100,000 acres of Minnesota timber were temporarily saved from being cut by a ruling Monday by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The trees are in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area. Paper companies would like to cut them to make paper. The legal action which has stopped the paper companies was initiated by the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Public Interest Research Group, financed by donations from college students.

U.S. District Judge Miles Lord of Minneapolis had issued an injunction against the timber-cutting until the effects on the environment could be determined. The Appeals Court, which heard arguments on the case in February, ruled that the U.S. Forest Service must remain in effect until the U.S. Forest Service completes an environmental impact statement.

The statement will be completed this summer. The effect of the ruling may postpone the cutting for a short time, unless a second suit is filed against the paper companies. But Judge Floyd R. Gibson of the ruling may postpone the cutting for a short time, unless a second suit is filed against the paper companies. But Judge Floyd R. Gibson of the ruling may postpone the cutting for a short time, unless a second suit is filed against the paper companies.

court's majority is firmly on the side of the environmentalists.

"Logging destroys virgin forest, not only for recreational use, but for scientific and educational purposes as well," 1,000 letters larger than 100 words may cause erosion and water pollution and remain visible for as long as 100 years.

Gibson said the Boundary Waters Canoe Area "is a unique natural resource with some 1,000,000 acres of lakes, streams and timber, which, along with the adjoining Canadian Quetico-Suezi Forest, forms the only canoe wilderness area in the world. The area contains more than 1,000 lakes larger than 10 acres, or connected by streams, either by portages that allow for easy canoe travel through the wilderness area."

Judge Donald R. Ross said in the dissenting opinion that the total area in question was less than one percent of the Boundary Waters Canoe Area, and the location of the areas to be logged was not adjacent to any portion of the area used for recreational purposes."

News Of Servicemen

TWIN FALLS — A U.S. Army major responsible for 17,000 accounts as chief of military pay with the 24th Infantry Division in Augsburg, Germany, has assumed duty as finance officer at White Sands Missile Range.

The new finance head, Major Bruce Groves, a native of Twin Falls, is a business graduate of the University of Idaho where he received his commission in the infantry through the Reserve Officer Training Corp. program.

Major Groves is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Groves and is married to the former Nancy L. Hatt of Twin Falls. They have one son, Mark, 14 years old.

GLENN FERRY — Airman Bruce L. Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Zevelon F. Lewis, Glenn Ferry, has been assigned to Keeler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training at Lackland AFB Tex. During his basic training at Lackland, he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Keeler, for specialized training in armament systems. Lewis is a 1973 graduate of high school at Glenn Ferry.

MAJ. LANE GROVES, finance officer

Since then he has served tours of duty at Ft. Benning, Ga., where he completed the infantry officers basic course and airborne school; Heilbronn, Germany, where he served as a platoon leader and company executive officer, and Augsburg, Germany, where he was a deputy finance officer for the 24th Infantry Division.

From 1967 to 1970 he was chief of the accounting branch with the Atomic Support Agency at Santa Base, N.M., and later served as comptroller adviser to the

Bliss trustees hold meet

BLISS — Bliss school trustees expressed appreciation for the services of Sam Bishop, chairman the past year, at the June board meeting Monday night.

Bishop was defeated by Art Thompson, a write-in candidate, by a seven-vote margin last month. Bishop has served on the board the past four years.

Supl. Burton Lanker said Mrs. Fred Becker was hired to teach first grade at the Monday night session. This was the only vacancy in the district.

Trustees voted to allow one step in salary schedule for one year's experience in the military. They also are working with Idaho Power Co. and the Union Pacific Railroad Co. to obtain safety improvements at the Treceka railroad crossing near the Bliss power plant.

Booster shot

URBANA, Ill. (UPI) — Diesel tractor power can be increased by boosting the delivery of the fuel injection pump, installing turbochargers, adding LP-Gas to the intake air and overboring cylinders.

New teacher hired by Murtaugh board

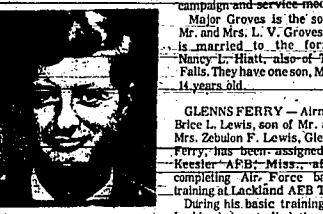

MURTAUGH — Murtaugh school trustees hired Sheryl Elms, Powers, Ore., as home economics teacher at the board meeting Monday night.

She will replace Mrs. Marilyn Wignall, who has resigned because of a now baby.

Supl. Florin Hulise said applications still are being considered for an English teacher to replace Jan-Nel Neilson, who moved to the Raft River area. No action has been taken on this vacancy yet, he said.

Two new board members, Ray McFarland and Gerald Sievers, attended the meeting. Trustees discussed painting the inside of the old gymnasium, the also used for indoor basketball, and the possibility of painting the outside of the high school building.

They also discussed purchasing a new water heater but have not decided on whether to use gas or electricity.

American task force clears Suez mines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American task force has cleared the mines from the Suez Canal between Port Said in the north and Suez in the south but it will be six to eight months before the waterway is "completely clear," Rear Adm. Brian McCauley said Tuesday.

"Now remaining," he told a Pentagon news conference, "is the more tedious task of the removal of unexploded mines and bombs and the removal of the wreckage of the dozen or so ships blocking the waterway."

Another major obstacle, McCauley said, is a causeway built across the canal by Israel at Deversor, north of the Great Bitter Lake.

of everything," he said. McCauley estimated that the 15-mile canal would probably be cleared of all explosives within six to eight months.

"McCauley said that ships wrecked in the canal would have to be cut up so they could be lifted out in pieces. McCauley, who commanded the operation for removal of mines in North Vietnamese waters last year, said "As opposed to the last Vietnamese operation this has been a very friendly and easy one," he said. "The Egyptians have been most cooperative. From the American standpoint, it was a well worthwhile operation. It gained us a great deal of respect from the Egyptians."

NFL negotiations strike early snag

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League players and owners, facing each other across the bargaining table for the first time since the beginning of April, were in disagreement Tuesday as to what constituted a "response." Nothing substantial came from a three-hour afternoon session as a result of the absence of mediator William Uery of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, who was away at another negotiation.

Uery's absence caused the owners, represented by the NFL Management Council, to withhold "an amplification," according to NFL Executive Director John Thompson, "of our April 4 statement."

"The reason we withheld discussion on the 'freedom issues' was at the request of Uery," said Thompson, "but we will give the players our answer at tomorrow's session, whether or not Uery is there."

"This is not to say that we haven't given them our position before."

The freedom issues include the Roselle Rule, dealing with compensation for players signing on with other clubs when playing out their options, and the waiver procedure, which establishes a definite standard as to when a waived player must report to a team.

Tennis dope tests prove negative

PARIS (UPI) — Tennis' first drug controversy blew up at the French Open championship today, but tournament director Pierre Darmon said tests on both players involved proved negative.

Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia and Frenchman Jauffret took urine tests in a dispute over how Jauffret upset Kodes Monday night in the tournament's fourth round.

A French Tennis Federation communiqué announced, "The results of the doping tests made today on Francois Jauffret and Jan Kodes showed negative."

Kodes had told reporters, "I asked for the tests because I had heard he couldn't play. I was surprised that a guy who was not fit two or three days before can play that kind of game."

Kodes said that Jauffret, who injured his left thigh Saturday, "played out of his mind" in the 7-5, 7-5 victory.

Jauffret vehemently denied he "had taken any dope and said, 'This is going to make Kodes look ridiculous.'"

"If it had been a foreign player who beat Kodes then I think we might have refused to give the tests," Darmon said. "But since it is a Frenchman

Triple winner still faces 'who are you?'

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Hubert Green's locker at the U.S. Open is in a dark, isolated corner of the dressing room. The view from a small window behind his bench is blocked by a big air duct.

It's a lousy place to spend anytime, but Hubert Green may have to be there a lot this week greeting visitors who invariably are asking in one form or another a rather awkward question:

"Who are you?"

The question is awkward only because Hubert Green already has won three tournaments and $156,000 on the golf tour this year, figures exceeded only by Johnny Miller, and yet Green is still a rather anonymous soul among the 150 competitors preparing for Thursday's start of the Open.

Green wishes people would understand that he didn't just materialize out of a cereal box this year.

"Contrary to popular belief," he says, "I didn't have a real poor year last year. The people who think that don't know. I didn't have that bad a year—a lot of people would take $114,000 without crying."

Cardinals pin first shutout of year on Los Angeles 1-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bake McBride became the only run of the game and Lynn McGlothen, with last out relief help from Al Hrabosky, gained his eighth victory of the season Tuesday night as the St. Louis Cardinals clipped the Dodgers 1-0.

Los Angeles, winner of 42 of 50 games, averaged 5.8 runs per contest before McGlothen.

Astros rip Phils on 10-run rally.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cesar Cedeno's third career grand slam home highlighted a 10-run seventh-inning rally which gave the Houston Astros a 7-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night.

The Astros had taken a 4-1 lead, Bob Watson led off the double inning and Lee May's double scored him. Then, after Bill Russell singled to make it 5-1, Greg Gross knocked in two more runs with a single to left after Tommy Helms was also walked intentionally.

Bad throw lets Braves nip NY.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Johnny Oates raced home from second base on a sacrifice fly, and the Atlanta Braves won their eighth straight game by beating the New York Mets 1-0 Tuesday night.

Oates began the 11th with a single and moved to second on a single by Craig Robinson. Tepping walked over the game in the ninth inning, and pinch-hitter, then laid down a bunt which Apodaca scooped up but fired past first base and into short rightfield, allowing Oates to score.

Montreal routs Cincinnati 16-6.

MONTREAL (UPI) — Willie Davis drove in seven runs in a pair of homers, including the fourth grand slam of his career, Tuesday night to power the Montreal Expos to a 16-6 rout of the Cincinnati Reds.

Davis cracked a three-run homer to highlight a seventh-inning rally and sparked an eight-run eighth with his grand slam as he equaled the club record for most RBIs in a game. Ron Fairly and Mike Jorgensen also homered for the Expos, who collected 14 hits.

French tennis team doctor says Jauffret had no injury.

PARIS (UPI) — French tennis team doctor Pierre Tabet said Jauffret had suffered a rupture of several muscle fibers. He said the Frenchman was given no injections and the only medication he was given was "morphine" pills he called "Bri-fin" to fight inflammation.

The incident erupted just 10 days after Kodes was kicked out of the Italian championship at Rome for showing a referee in a line-out dispute. Kodes was two points away from losing.

"I'm surprised," Jauffret said, "After Rome and now this incident. A great player like Kodes cannot accept defeat."

To be exact, in 1973, Green earned $114,397 on the tour. But he did it while no one was looking. He won the Tallahassee Open while the big boys were playing in the tournament of Champions, took the B.C. Open at Endicott, N.Y., while the Ryder Cup matches were going on, and placed second at the Waukegan, Wis., tournament where almost everyone else was at the British Open.

This year, however, he has won three times—the Bob Hope Desert Classic, Jacksonville and Philadelphia—in tournaments where the field included people like Miller, Tom Weiskopf and Billy Casper.

"I feel better coming into the Open now than I ever have before a tournament. That's because of the confidence I've gotten from playing well this year," Green says.

Green says, "Instead of being one of the 150, I'm maybe one out of ten here. Now some people are mentioning me with the four or five people you always pick to win a major championship."

Green, 27 and a four-year tour veteran from Birmingham, Ala., says he doesn't feel he has reached "star" status yet.

"but I know that I'm not the average qualifier on the tour."

He says he's still enthusiastic enough to get a thrill out of meeting people like Joe Garagiola or Sammy Davis Jr., and to enjoy aspects of golf other than the prize money.

"If this was boring, I wouldn't be doing it for a living," Green says. "I enjoy the competition, and, sure, the recognition you get from people from time to time. I like to try to be entertaining, and to sign autographs. People who spend from $5 to $10 a ticket deserve more than a cold stare and a get-out-of-my-way attitude."

"Money's not what I'm out here for. I've been very fortunate all my life not to be too concerned with money. Of course, if you do well, the money will come in anyway."

"But the things I like are the memories you get from a good sport, a trophy and a watch when I win at Tallahassee. At Jacksonville, I got another trophy and coat and the key to the city. How many people 27 years old have a key to a city? When the money's all gone, I'll still have these things."

Obscure golfers from obscure places seek stardom in open

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — No one just walks into a U.S. Open and starts playing. It's tough to get here.

More than 4,000 people, in fact, entered this one and after two rounds of 36-hole qualifying—all the chinkers should have been gone.

But every year at the Open some people who you would never imagine should be playing, defy all logic and reason and wind up in the starting field.

They arrive from places like Lee's Summit, Mo., Wayzata, Minn., or Mount Pleasant, Pa., get assigned lockers, next to Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer or Gary Player, play their 36 holes, miss the cut and go home.

One thing they all have in common is their dreams. "This year, one of them is named Chris Pigott. A 24-year-old assistant club pro from Chevy Chase, Md. Pigott won a U.S. Open and starts playing. It's tough to get here.

Quarry sets box and move assault against Frazier

By DAVE ANDERSON
(c) New York Times Service
McFEE, N. J. — On the seventh day before the fight, Jerry Quarry rested.

He will oppose Joe Frazier next Monday night at Madison Square Garden but today he sat in the shade of the trees by the pool at the Playboy Club Hotel at Great George instead of sparring inside the big green and white striped tent on a grassy hillside.

Throughout his heavyweight career, Jerry Quarry's head has been a favorite subject of boxing psychiatrists. When he fought Frazier five years ago, for example, he ignored advice to box and move. Instead he chose to slug. He won the first round in a textbook classic of power punching. But he lost the next six rounds. And the bout was stopped after the seventh when he couldn't see out of his right eye.

"But this time," Quarry promises, "I'll fight Joe like I'm supposed to fight him."

In his workout yesterday, the 29-year-old California heavyweight was about to begin another round when Clancy, who guided Emile Griffith to the welterweight and middleweight titles, whispered instructions to him. Then, as Quarry neared the center of the ring, Clancy yelled:

"The best way to start it is with that right hand to the body."

Whatever the instructions were, Clancy was vague about them later. But he did acknowledge that Quarry's chances against the former champion will depend on two factors.

"Taking away Frazier's left hook, that's one," Clancy said. "The other is, Jerry can't stand around like he's stuck in the mud."

Jerry agrees. In his six consecutive, and mostly impressive, victories over the last 18 months under Clancy's tutelage, he has learned to listen. Before that, before he retired briefly two years ago after losing to Muhammad Ali for the second time, he did it the best way, in those years his father Jack was his manager and Teddy Benham was his trainer. He also was developing marital problems with his first wife, now divorced.

"My dad and I still get along well," he says, "but at the time of the second Ali fight, I was having too many hassles. Family problems. Marital problems. Even weight problems. Everybody else wanted me to be under 200 for that fight so I took two weeks pills to get down to 198. And then I watched my brother Mike get knocked out by Bob Foster just before my fight. Like me, Mike had come to that point in his career and got knocked out. When I walked in that fight with Ali, it was a matter of going through the motions."

He worked for a few months with Three Dog Night, the musical group, then he phoned Clancy about a comeback.

"I knew I was not going to go much further unless I took a new road," Jerry says. "And so far that road has been pretty straight. For this fight, I'm a better fighter than Joe Frazier is now. I can do different things. Joe can only do one thing. The last I fought him, I was about 70 per cent of my potential. Now I'm about 85 per cent. 90 per cent. I know he can't fight any better than he did in our fight five years ago. I think his two best fights were with me and Jimmy Ellis, not his first Ali fight."

Jerry, 29, should win Monday night. He should be quick and too strong for Joe Frazier now.

N. Colorado, Oklahoma ousted in NCAA baseball tournament

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) Southern Illinois relief pitcher Dewey Robinson squelched the Northern Colorado rally in the first inning and went on to pitch the Saluki's to a 5-3 win in the College World Series Tuesday night.

Texas eliminated Oklahoma 16-4 in the first game. The two elimination games narrowed the 1974 series down to a four-team field as Northern California and Oklahoma were ousted from the tournament.

Southern Illinois meets Miami, Thursday night, and Southern California plays Texas.

Before that, Miami and Southern California will tangle in the battle of the unbeaten Wednesday.

Southern Illinois overcame an early Colorado lead and went out in front for good with a two-run fourth, keyed by Steve Shortzer's single, his steal of second for the second time in the game, and scoring on a delayed double-play with Jim Locascio.

Northern Colorado, the Cinderella team of the tournament, chased Saluki starter Rob Kins in the first inning after he gave up a single to Jeff Simpson and three walks to force Simpson home.

Robinson worked the remaining 5 1/3 innings, limiting OUC batters to two hits while striking out 7. The little-used freshman upped his record to 2-1.

Texas spotted Oklahoma three second inning runs before coming back to win.

Texas lefty Rick Burley went the distance, scattering eight hits and striking out 13 batters. He won his 13th game without a loss, while Oklahoma starter Stan Meek was tagged with his second loss in 12 games.

Texas (5-1), co-ranked with Miami the No. 1 team in the series got back in the game in the bottom of the second inning on Bobby Clark's two-run home run.

After scoring another run in the third inning, the Longhorns took the lead for good in the fourth when Doug Duncan singled in Clark and Tom Ball scored on a passed ball.

The Horns, paced by Clark and Duncan who each drove in three runs, scored again in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jim Perry scattered eight hits and recorded his 30th career win on Tuesday night in hurling the Cleveland Indians to a 6-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Perry, in picking up his fifth win of the year against the Sox, notched his 19th career victory.

Unit kills ban on cable TV sports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Tuesday killed an amendment that would have prevented cable television viewers from seeing regularly televised sports programs.

The proposed provision in the Copyright Bill would have imposed a sports blackout for any cable television station in the local area of any television station.

The language was deleted from the bill in an amendment by Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., who said it was "onerous and unfair."

Gurney said the provision "could be financially disastrous to most cable television systems. Also, it ignored viewing demands of millions of Americans who must rely on cable television to see sports programs."

Gurney's amendment to delete the provision was approved.

Colts trade for Orduna

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The Baltimore Colts Tuesday traded veteran defensive end Roy Hilton to the New York Giants for running back Joe Orduna, the leading runner on Nebraska's 1970 national champion team.

Hilton, 31, is a nine-year veteran of the Colts but lost his regular starting position last year.

Sues Rockets

DENVER (UPI) — Former Denver Rocket Guard Warren Jaball filed suit in Denver district court Tuesday for $50,000 in damages from the American Basketball Association club, claiming breach of contract.

Jaball was placed on waivers by then-Rocket coach and general manager Alex Hannum in February, just two days after he started for the west in the ABA All-Star Game.

Jaball asked for $50,000 as his unpaid 1973-74 salary, $20,000 for unpaid car lease payments and $40,000 for alleged damages and deferred compensation.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Added vitality can now be yours by taking beneficial health treatments. Your mind is preoccupied with new studies for gaining more ingenious methods by which you are able to achieve your most cherished objectives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Changing routines could bring you more benefits and greater success in the future. Plan the future in a most intelligent way.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make some changes in present money arrangements and you get better results. Let advisers you trust give the advice you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you team up with intelligent friends, there can be fine advantages for you. Make changes in some personal plan you have.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Long talks with one of influence will show you how to formulate a new course of action that will be very profitable.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 23) Visit new places with a clever pal and lay the groundwork for future profit. Sidestep a new contact who is not your type at all.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 22) Consult with an expert and know just where you can cut down on expenses without hurting your operation. Be cooperative with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) It is important that you have more harmony with kin as well as associates at this time. Take time for the social side of life.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Schedule your activities wisely now and then you can gain your personal goals. Take the health treatments that you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go to places that are pleasing to you and mate. Take a gift to one who has been in need. Show more devotion to mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to make necessary repairs at home without further delay. Show that you are helpful to kin. Do a favor for a friend.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get together with a charming person you know and have a delightful time. Do some communicating with those who can be helpful.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Attend to an important financial matter without delay. Consult with key persons who can assist you. Make home improvements.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a very ingenious mind. You should listen to your progeny's ideas, then point out the good or bad in them. Give as fine an education as you can since the mind here is brilliant and the willingness to learn is great. A good spiritual training and sports are a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

What's What

L. M. Boyd

Surveyors asked 400 couples to put in order of importance a lengthy list of what would be conducive to a happy marriage. "Companionship" came in first, unsurprisingly. But surprisingly, "good food" came in last. That's odd. Good food should have come in fifth.

Am asked, what medical specialist discovered allergies. None other than the father of medicine himself, Hippocrates in 400 B.C., said he. "There are some men whose bodies are incompatible with cheese."

That savvy woman who tends to be a little full-throated can camouflage her double chin by giving it a slightly darker makeup cover than she wears elsewhere on her face.

A baby doesn't usually get three dimensional vision until about the age of 9 months.

TRADITIONS
Water from the kitchen dishwasher seeped up through the ground over the grease trap tank in front of the house. The old man who came out to fix it cut a furrow in the sod with his double-bladed ax so as to drain the excess water onto the roots of some nearby ornamental shrubs. Peculiar thing? Where I was brought up in the lumberjack country of the Pacific Northwest, it was the tradition that you got whipped if you swung a good ax into the dirt. But this is West Texas, cattle country. The tradition here, the old man said, was that you got whipped if you wasted water.

Q "I've heard that word 'cimarón' all my life, but never its definition. What does it mean?"
A Wild, untamed in Spanish.

TERMINAL
If you were to suffer a terminal illness, would you prefer to be informed about it? Eight-out of 10 patients surveyed, said yes. They'd want to know. But nine out of 10 doctors said they'd rather not thus enlighten their patients with incurable illnesses. So reports a medical journal.

The puritans in Colonial America suffered one extreme phobia in particular. They not merely despised but actually feared single men who dressed over elegantly. In 1652 at Salem, Mass., the second oldest one young man was charged in court with the wearing of "an excess on the boots of ribands, gould and silver laces."

Not just this Queen Mother, but her daughter Queen Elizabeth, and her daughters, Princess Margaret and now Princess Anne all wear wedding rings made from the same gold nugget.

Dephants, too, have corns.

DAD'S DAY

We asked the children of Magic Valley to write us letters telling us what they would get their Dads, if they had all the money in the world. As you will find by reading the letters, Dad would receive everything from money to manure spreaders. We received letters from: Hailey to Twin Falls.

Space does not permit us to reprint all of the 2742 letters we received but all of the children deserve a lot of credit for their enthusiasm.

A special thanks goes to Roy Roper of the Twin Cinema theatres, and Jack Muldoon of Penny-Wise Drug for their assistance in arranging our prizes.

News Of Servicemen

AIRMAN SVANCARA
... assigned

BUHL — Airman Edward W. Svancara II, son of Mrs. Florence C. Calhoun Buhl, has been assigned to Chantel AFB, Ill., after completing Air Force basic training.

During his six weeks at the Air Training Command's Lackland AFB, Tex., he studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

The airman has been assigned to the Technical Training Center at Chantel for specialized training in the missile electronics field.

Airman Svancara, whose father, Ed Svancara, resides at Buhl, attended Buhl High School.

SGT. DAVID BUTLER
... decorated

TWIN FALLS — Sgt. David O. Butler, son of Mrs. Hazel Rytting, Twin Falls, has received the US Air Force commendation medal at Osan AB, Republic of Korea.

Sergeant Butler, an administrative specialist, was decorated for meritorious service at Keesler AFB, Miss.

He is now at Osan with a unit of the Pacific Air Forces.

The sergeant, a 1966 graduate of Twin Falls High School, attended the College of Southern Idaho.

His wife, Gloria, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Cherry, Autaugaaville, Ala.

TWIN FALLS — Leland H. Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Ward, Twin Falls, graduated from the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., Wednesday.

He was commissioned an ensign in the Navy and received a bachelor of science degree.

The academy is the undergraduate college of the US Navy. Its purpose is to educate and train men for service as officers in the naval service. The four-year school is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

SHOSHONE — Ronald R. Croft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Croft, Shoshone, is spending two weeks at Camp Roberts, Calif., with the National Guard unit from Phoenix, Ariz.

He will complete the stay on June 22 and return to Mesa, Ariz., where he is employed.

Camas sprayed

FAIRFIELD — The DDT spraying operation on 1,400 acres of tussock moth infested timber near Fairfield may begin Saturday or Sunday.

According to Larry Weeks, Fairfield district ranger of the Sawtooth National Forest, warming weather has boosted some hatch areas to 50 per cent, but a 70 per cent hatch is needed before the spraying will begin.

Field crews are daily surveying the area but the decision has been forestalled because of the cold weather. A helicopter is being calibrated now in Twin Falls for the operation. Another crew will follow behind, monitoring the spraying as it falls over the area.

Moths have already destroyed some timber in the Powell Creek, Elk Creek and Mill Canyon areas. With the warming weather, Weeks said, the moths are hatching rapidly. He said a three or four day advance warning would be given before the forest service begins the spray application.

SBA aide sets TF meeting

TWIN FALLS — A representative from the Small Business Administration in Boise will be in Twin Falls June 20 to assist area businessmen with SBA programs.

Jerry Gardner will be available for appointments at the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce office. Businessmen interested in talking with Gardner should bring their most recent financial information such as balance sheets, operating statements and tax returns.

Prospective businessmen should bring financial data and information about the proposed venture. Appointments should be made in advance by calling the chamber of commerce at 733-3874.

Peace officers at Boise

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Peace Officers Training Academy is conducting a training program this week at Boise State University to teach policemen how to handle juvenile problems.

The program will cover laws that affect juveniles and the resources available to officers in working with youth problems.

The program will cover laws that affect juveniles and the resources available to officers in working with youth problems.

Instructors at the school will include a judge and attorneys and social workers.

If I had all the money in the world, I would buy my dad a cement mixer.
And why I think he would need a cement mixer is because by our house is a dirt road. And when big trucks go by our house dirt goes all around. And when the dust goes all around, it's hard to breathe. So if he had a cement mixer he could clean the dirt road. So that why I think he would need a cement mixer. My dad is good to me. And think I will buy him a ticket for a vacation too.
I love him the most. My name is
